Small-Town Speed Traps Poked

The New York Times

Washington — Small towns that make a lucrative business of arresting and fining unwary motorists may find that practice curtailed under a decision handed down Tuesday by the Supreme Court.

The court ruled that it was unconstitutional for a mayor to sit as a judge in traffic cases and collect fines when the money represented a major part of village's revenue. The majority, in a 7-to-2 decision said speeders and other violators were entitled to a more "neutral and detached judge."

The case arose in Monroeville, Ohio, a village of 1,400 fifty miles west-southwest of Cleveland. But, since there are 16 other states that permit mayors to try traffic cases in small communities, many of them in the South, the impact of the decision on "speed trap" justice could be considerable.

Monroeville, the court found, has been heavily dependent on traffic fines. From 1964 through 1968, the village collected total revenues of $243,618, of which $101,683 or more than 40% came from the mayor's court.

In a similar Ohio case 45 years ago the court had prohibited a mayor from levying traffic fines when he personally received a portion of the fines in addition to his salary.

In Tuesday's decision, Associate Justice William J. Brennan Jr. declared, "The test is whether the mayor's situation is one 'which would offer a possible temptation to the average man as a judge to forget the burden of proof required to convict the defendant, or which might lead him not to hold the balance nice, clear and true between the state and the accused.' "Plainly," Brennan continued, "that 'possible temptation' may also exist when the mayor's executive responsibilities for village finances may make him partisan to maintain the high level of contribution from the mayor's court."

Joining Brennan in the majority were Chief Justice War-en E. Burger and Associates Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart, Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun and Lewis F. Powell Jr.

Other states that permit mayors to levy traffic fines are Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

NBC Picks Temporary Site

. . . Bank To Use Old Sears Store While Building

The temporary location for the National Bank of Commerce, while its new multi-million dollar facility is being built, will be in the Sears building at 13th and N.

The signing of a lease covering occupancy of three floors of the Sears building was announced Tuesday by Paul J. Amen, president of National Bank of Commerce following approval of the board of directors.

The property involved includes the basement, first and second floors of the half block fronting on N St., between 12th and 13th. The approximately 130,000 square feet of space will allow NBC to also make temporary retail space available to businesses that will be displaced by the new building construction.

As soon as approval of the site is obtained from regulatory authorities NBC will remodel the basement, first and second floors as its temporary banking headquarters. The arrangement is necessary so that site preparation and construction of a new NBC bank and office building can be started. That multi-million dollar permanent structure will be built on NBC's present site, 13th and O, and on the Varsity Theatre corner at 13th and P.

The bank's temporary location is expected to be ready for occupancy in March 1973.

Amen said, "The move to temporary quarters should not disrupt customer service. The drive-in facilities located at 10th and 'O' and 12th and 'P' will still be available to our customers. In addition, we are establishing a new Customer Service Center. The staff in this area will be qualified to handle all banking needs and inquiries.

"He also said, 'The present NBC Safe Deposit vault will be moved intact, as they are constructed in sections. We are going to do everything possible to prevent any disruption of service of our customers.'"

The bank announced that Ross Hecht, vice-president of Marketing at NBC, will be project officer for both the remodeling of the Sears location for the bank occupancy, and the subsequent move back into the new bank building when complete.

Hecht said NBC's Instalment Loan Center, Mortgage Loan Department, Travel Unlimited

Hanoi's Tho Stops In China

. . . En Route To Paris

By The Associated Press

Le Duc Tho stopped off Tuesday in Peking en route to Paris where the chief North Vietnamese peace negotiator will again hold secret talks with Henry A. Kissinger.

The date for the secret session remained up in the air because it was not known how long Tho will remain in Peking and he also is expected to make a stop in Moscow.

At the White House, indications were that the present tentative timetable calls for an announcement soon that Kissinger would be heading for Paris in a few days for his 21st meeting with Tho. This would be the first time the White House has announced a Kissinger trip before he actually was in the French capital.

Further indications were that the Kissinger-Tho session is tentatively planned to begin this weekend or early next week.

The Meets Chou

The Chinese news agency, Hsinhua, said Tho met with Premier Chou En-lai and reported "they had a cordial and friendly conversation" but gave no hint of what they talked about.

Tho is a member of North Vietnam's ruling Politburo. Hsinhua said another member of the Politburo, Hoang Van Hoan, was with Tho when he met Chou. Whether Hoan was going to Paris was not mentioned.

Radio Hanoi, in an English-language broadcast, noted Tho was en route to Paris and demanded again that the United States sign the draft of a peace accord reached last month.

"The fact that special adviser Le Duc Tho goes to Paris once again shows the good will and serious attitude of the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam," the broadcast said.

Deadlock Seen

In Paris, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong peace negotiating team said she fears the forthcoming new round of secret talks may lead to deadlock because President Nixon does not really want to end the war.

She told newsmen that the Nixon administration is seeking major changes in the draft peace agreement "so as to leave us at the mercy of our enemies."

One of the nonnegotiable principles, she said, was the American decision not to challenge the presence of the "liberation forces" at present in South Vietnam.

Kissinger and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., his assistant who has just returned from South Vietnam, conferred with Nixon at Camp David on Monday. Both were still in Washington.

While U.S. officials in Saigon said Haig had narrowed the differences between the United States and South Vietnam in talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu, Saigon still was voicing demands for changes in the draft of the peace accord.

Bare Fact

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said only that the United States has asked North Vietnam for another secret meeting but refused to say whether it had been arranged. Ziegler said the White House is satisfied with the pace of discussions with South Vietnam and with the peace negotiations.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam said Saigon would agree to a partial pullout of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam with the remainder regrouping in zones under international supervision for gradual withdrawal.

Both Lam and a top presidential aide, Hoang Duc Nha, demanded that a North Vietnamese troop withdrawal provision be written into any final peace agreement.

Exon Realizes He Is Primary GOP Target

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

As he enters the last half of his first term, Gov. J. James Exon realizes he now has become the primary target for Nebraska's Republican Party.

"I know the guns of the Republican hierarchy will be trained on this office," the Democratic chief executive said Tuesday in an interview.

"During my political career, I have probably been as frustrating to the hierarchy of the Republican Party as any man in the state."

GOP Assumption

Although he has made no decision yet on a re-election bid in 1974, Exon said, "I am sure the Republican Party is going ahead on the assumption that I will seek re-election.

"I am not playing coy. I have not made a decision on whether I will run for governor two years from now."

"But I do know the Republican Party is going to make an all-out effort to capture the governorship in 1974."

Partisan Politics?

Exon said he does not know whether partisan politics will be employed against him in the largely Republican non-partisan Legislature next year, although "that could well be."

"I have not seen that rear its ugly head yet," he noted. "And I would hope that the Legislature would recognize that its members are elected as non-partisans."

Bread Price Hike Okayed

Washington (UPI) — The Price Commission Tuesday authorized another round of bread price increases by Continental Baking Co., largest bakers in the nation because of higher wheat costs resulting from American grain sales to the Soviet Union.

The commission approved a 3.3% price increase on bread products for Continental Baking Co. in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin. A 3.43% increase on bread products in the Pittsburgh area and a 3.73% increase for Continental's Bread Products in the Pacific Northwest.

The commission denied a 0.20% increase requested by Continental for the San Francisco Bay area "because the corrected productivity calculation offsets the amount cost justified."

Continental Baking is part of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT).

History Made On Big Board

The New York Times

New York — The Dow-Jones Industrial Average, sprinting for the tape like a runner with maximum effort, closed above the 1,000 barrier Tuesday for the first time in history.

It finished at 1,003.16 for a heart-thumping gain of 6.09 points in what many Wall Streeters consider the equivalent of the initial breaking of the four-minute mile.

"This thing has an obvious psychological effect," declared one brokerage-house partner. "It's a hell of a news item. As to the permanence of it — well, I just don't know."

Five times before, the Dow average of 30 leading industrial stocks had surpassed the 1,000 mark during intraday trading, only to fall below that figure by the end of each session.

But Tuesday the Big Board was not to be denied.

The Dow finally put it all together — the peace rally, the re-election of President Nixon, the surging economy, booming corporate profits and lessening fears about inflation and taxes and controls and the other uncertainties of 1973.

At 3:29 p.m. E.S.T., red light bars flashed on above and below each of the time clocks surrounding the trading floor of the New York Stock Exchange. This was the traditional visual signal to show that one minute of trading time remained. At the same moment, a bell began clanging on the speaker's rostrum — the auditory warning.

Traders, brokers and clerks on the floor — aware that history was in the making — broke into cheers that lasted for about 20 seconds. Some paper was tossed into the air and drifted down like confetti.

Washington — Henry A. Kissinger conferred with President Nixon and other high officials as he prepared to leave for Paris to begin what the administration regards as a crucial round of talks with North Vietnam's chief negotiator Le Duc Tho, who was reported to be on his way to Paris. (More on Page 1.)

Pullback Is Puzzle

Saigon — Several North Vietnamese battalion-sized units have begun pulling back from the area near the demilitarized zone and from the province around Saigon, American and South Vietnamese military sources reported. The pullbacks, which began last week, are still too small to indicate a definite trend, the sources stressed, and it is not clear, they said, whether the withdrawals are in preparation for a cease-fire or are only a periodic rotation of troops after a period of heavy fighting.

Terrorists Broke Up Plans

Paris — About a week before the Palestinian attack on the Israeli team at the Olympic Games in Munich, Israel and Egypt had accepted a plan for direct, secret contacts to launch negotiations, according to an authoritative Western diplomatic source. The informant said officials were convinced that the purpose of the attack was to break up the plan.

Pay Reductions Ordered

Washington — The Pay Board, as expected, ordered pay reductions for nearly 24,000 employees of New York newspapers and 300 commercial printing companies. The board directed that pay raises of 11% already in effect under existing contracts be trimmed to 8%. At the same time, the Price Commission ordered the New York Times and the New York Daily News to scale back increases in advertising rates approved by the commission earlier this year. (More on Page 3.)

Gray Says He Decided

New York — J. Patrick Gray, acting director of the FBI, said he and Southern Airways officials had jointly decided to immobilize Southern's hijacked jet in Orlando, Fla., Saturday, but that he personally had ordered that it be done by shooting out the tires. (More on Page 2.)

Nixon Urged To Provide Federal Airport Police

Washington (AP) — The head of the Air Line Pilots Association called on President Nixon Tuesday to provide U.S. airports with federal police to supervise boarding and passenger screening in an effort to halt air hijackings.

ALPA President John J. O'Donnell, in a letter to the President, cited the hijacking of a Southern Airways plane to Cuba this past weekend and the recent murder of an Eastern Air Lines ticket agent during another hijack attempt.

"Due to the magnitude of the problem and the apparent inability of local, state and federal officials or the industry to achieve effective results, we must request that you immediately provide airports with federal officers to be utilized during the boarding of all commercial airlines," O'Donnell said.

The ALPA is a union representing about 31,000 pilots of 38 U.S. airlines, plus 15,000 flight attendants of 20 U.S. airlines. O'Donnell's remarks were the organization's first public comment on the Southern Airways hijacking.

O'Donnell also urged Nixon to "take the initiative in an attempt to directly negotiate an accord with the Cuban government." He said open negotiations with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's government "must be reached if we are ever to see an end to this skyjacking menace."

Castro reportedly praised the pilot who landed the crippled hijacked jet at Havana Sunday and told him the hijackers would be treated as criminals, the Federal Aviation Administration said earlier Tuesday.

Even though the three men who hijacked the Southern Airways DC9 after takeoff from Birmingham, Ala., last Friday may face harsh treatment in Cuba, U.S. authorities are seeking their prompt return — along with their reported $2 million ransom — for prosecution in American courts.

Lusty Gale Blamed In 17 Deaths

By United Press International
Smashing, gale-driven waves and heavy rains drove hundreds of persons from their homes along the shores of the eastern and southern Great Lakes Tuesday.

The season's first big transcontinental storm swept through the eastern Midwest and across the North Atlantic Seaboard, triggering flooding in the New York metropolitan area and dropping heavy snows in upstate New York and New England.

The far-ranging autumn storm, which boiled out of the west over the weekend, was blamed at least in part for 17 deaths in its sweep to the Atlantic.

Southeastern Michigan, at the western tip of Lake Erie, and northwestern Ohio, on the southern shore of the lake, were particularly hard hit. Lake Michigan waves battered at the Indiana and Illinois shorelines.

Four National Guard helicopters, including a "Medicopter," and amphibious vehicles were pressed into the fight against the floodwaters in Ohio. In both Ohio and Michigan, several hundred persons were moved to higher ground as mammoth waves and runoff from heavy rains inundated or battered their homes.

FBI Director Decided To Shoot Out Tires

St. Louis (AP) — The acting director of the FBI said in St. Louis Tuesday that the controversial decision to shoot out the tires on a hijacked Southern Airways jetliner Saturday in Orlando, Fla., was his decision.

"I made the decision to abort the flight with the full concurrence of Southern Airways," acting Director L. Patrick Gray said.

"I elected the means to do it," Gray said, adding that airline officials concurred because of the risk involved.

"It was obvious that the crew and passengers were under considerable tension," he said, noting that the plane had made six landings in the United States, one in Cuba and one in Canada before the tires were shot out.

Gray said the action was successful in that it "caused the plane to land and the passengers to be released." He said the hijackers planned to take the plane to Switzerland or Africa and their destination was impossible with the tires shot out. The plane eventually landed a second time in Cuba, where the passengers and crew were released.

Gray was asked about reports that the shooting order originated with President Nixon, who was at his residence in Key Biscayne, Fla., at the time.

"False," Gray replied. "I didn't even talk with President Nixon."

Peron Arrives In Rome

Rome (AP) — Juan D. Peron arrived in Rome Tuesday and said he was returning home after 17 years in exile "to see if I can bring some peace to the Argentines." He called his people "traditionally rebellious."

The military government in Buenos Aires announced that all public and commercial activities — schools, factories and government offices — will shut down as a precaution against disorders on the day of the former president's return.

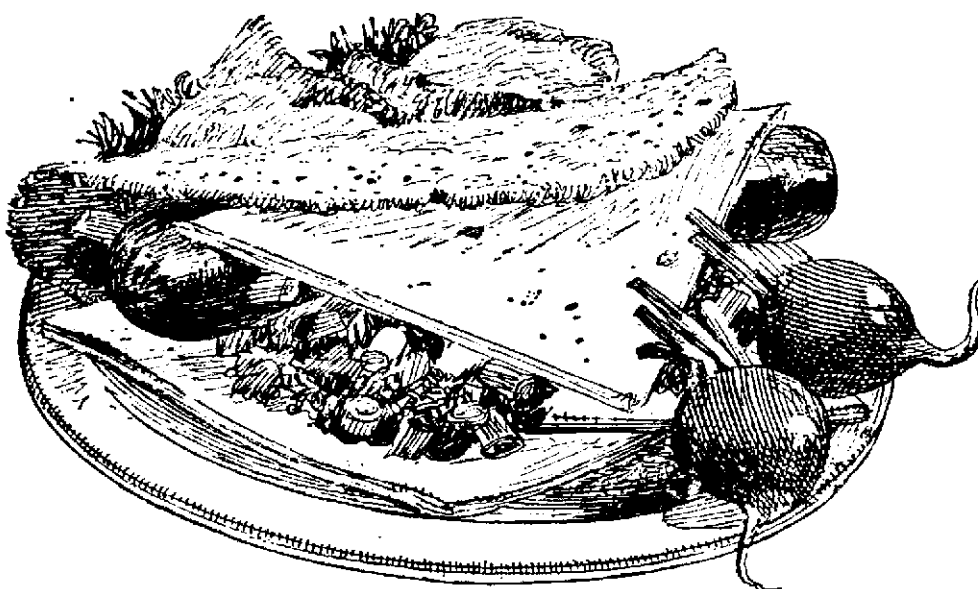

The government order overshadowed a general strike called by Peron's followers for Friday, the day he is scheduled to arrive in Buenos Aires and re-enter the Argentine political stage.

In an interview with Italian television, the former dictator said: "I think this mission of pacification can be successful . . . I don't know what I'll do, but I'll do everything I can to quiet down the people, mainly those who are in line with my inclinations, the Peronists."

Peron said Argentina was going through "a difficult moment," adding: "There are many dangers. It is hard to find an agreement even on the political elections."

McGovern's Aides Learned, Before VP Selection, Of Eagleton Hospital Stays

Washington (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's top aides learned that Thomas F. Eagleton had been hospitalized for exhaustion even before the Missouri senator was selected as the vice-presidential nominee, interviews with the Associated Press disclosed Tuesday.

Within hours after Eagleton's nomination, two top McGovern aides, Gordon Well and Frank Mankiewicz, received confirmation from Douglas Bennett, Eagleton's administrative assistant, but failed to pass the word to McGovern until a few hours later.

At that point, "it wasn't a serious problem," Mankiewicz said.

Mankiewicz and Bennett agree that Eagleton never mentioned that he had undergone electric shock treatments until nearly a week later, after an anonymous tipster gave that information to a Knight Newspapers executive and to two McGovern aides.

Bennett said, however, "there was never any effort to conceal the shock treatments." Eagleton, however, omitted mention of them July 25 when he detailed his medical history for reporters, though subsequent questioning brought it out.

The interviews conducted in the wake of McGovern's smashing election defeat, confirmed for the first time the extent to which the McGovern camp knew of Eagleton's medical history, both before and immediately after he was nominated as the No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket.

Those involved put blame for the incident, from which McGovern says his campaign never recovered, on Eagleton's eagerness for the nomination, the haste with which he was picked and the initial feeling, in both McGovern and Eagleton camps, that his medical history did not present a serious problem.

On Thursday of the convention, after the selection of Eagleton but before his nomination, Mankiewicz and Kirby Jones, the senator's deputy press secretary, received word in the candidates' trailer of a report circulating on the convention floor that Eagleton had been in the hospital three times with a mental problem.

David Schumacher, a television correspondent now with ABC, said the McGovern aides dismissed it as "one more of the nutty things you hear around the convention," but that Mankiewicz said it had better be checked.

Jones said he circulated around the hall, and in the press galleries, but never heard any more.

Earlier on Thursday, at McGovern's direction, some two dozen aides met to sift vice-presidential names after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy had rejected the nomination. They narrowed the list to six, Eagleton, Wisconsin Gov.

Patrick Lucey, Boston Mayor Kevin White, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, labor leader Leonard Woodcock and Sargent Shriver, eventually to be named after Eagleton was dropped.

Well, who was unavailable for questioning this week, was detailed to check reports that Eagleton had a drinking problem, and, according to Mankiewicz and legislative assistant John L. Holun, reported back that the Missouriian had been hospitalized for exhaustion, not drinking.

"It was an answer to the alcoholism charge. That's what we were looking for," Holun recalled. "No one really thought of it on its own." Mankiewicz said he doubts that McGovern was told. "Why shouldn't the senator go into the hospital for exhaustion?" he asked. "So have a lot of people. That's like saying he had polio when he was a kid."

Mankiewicz, who earlier told the AP that Weil's checking had produced a report that "once he (Eagleton) went into the hospital from exhaustion," said Tuesday night "if that's what I said, then I didn't mean to say it."

He said the information he received from Bennett Friday morning of convention week came as "a complete surprise." He said that "it may very well be" that Weil gave that report to Holun and others but that "he didn't tell me."

Later that afternoon, after White was considered, and according to some accounts, Kennedy again indicated disinterest, Eagleton was selected and McGovern phoned him with the news. After a brief conversation in which the Missouri senator said he would accept, McGovern turned the phone over to Mankiewicz, who said he asked "if there was anything in his record" that would present a problem.

"Booze, Dames?" Jones, who was seated next to Mankiewicz agreed that Mankiewicz asked a follow-up question indicating he meant "booze, dames" or anything such as legal difficulties.

"It was pretty black and white what Frank was asking about," Jones said, adding "he was asking for any specifics without mentioning hospitalization or exhaustion."

Eagleton has said his negative answer was based on the fact that he didn't regard his past treatments as a problem since his health has been excellent since the last hospital stay in 1966.

Early Friday morning, July 14, just hours after the convention ended, Bennett said Weil approached him at a victory party to report that McGovern's staff had picked up rumors of hospitalization for drinking, that he didn't believe them but that they might have to be faced.

"I told him, 'Those rumors are false. What he was hospitalized for was exhaustion and depressive tendencies,'" Bennett said. Weil told Mankiewicz who didn't tell the nominee before he left Miami Beach to return to Washington.

Jury Finds GI Innocent Of 'Fragging'

Pt. Ord, Calif. (AP) — A military jury Tuesday found Pvt. Billy Dean Smith, the first soldier brought to trial in the United States in a "fraggings" incident, innocent of charges he killed two officers with a grenade in Vietnam.

Smith, a 24-year-old black from Los Angeles' Watts section, was acquitted of six counts of murder, attempted murder and assault but was found guilty of assaulting a military policeman who arrested him soon after the fragmentation grenade exploded on March 16, 1971, at Bien Hoa air base near Saigon.

The jury reduced Smith's enlisted man's rank from E2 to E1 and ordered that he receive a bad conduct discharge on the assault charge.

McGovern Backs Westwood, Tells Demos To Cool Off

Washington (UPI) — In the face of fresh demands that Jean Westwood quit as Democratic national chairman, George McGovern defended her performance Tuesday and advised Democrats frustrated over his overwhelming presidential defeat to cool off for awhile.

The signs pointed, however, to an all-out effort to oust the husky-voiced Utahian when the Democratic National Committee meets in Washington Dec. 9 if she has not quit by that time.

The newest call for Mrs. Westwood's resignation came from Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, who said "We will keep on the downward trend" unless a new team is installed in Democratic headquarters.

Hollings, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, which dispenses campaign funds to Senate candidates, offered no names as a possible successor.

Instead, he offered advice to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who he said must move away from McGovern's liberal views if he wants to be elected President in 1976.

"Not Even Kennedy" "Even Kennedy couldn't have prevailed" as the Democratic candidate this year if he had taken McGovern's positions on the issues, Hollings said.

"He was very much a part of McGovern's campaign and he could trip on many of these issues," he said. "He better learn a lesson from that campaign."

"Whether he likes it or not, he's in the race" for the 1976 presidential nomination, the generally conservative Southerner said.

Att St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where he is vacationing, McGovern was questioned about the demand Monday by the Democratic governors of Arkansas, Florida, Minnesota, Maryland and Maine that Mrs. Westwood tender her resignation. He said any decision about her future should be postponed.

"It would be better to take a look at it some time after the first of the year rather than jump to quick conclusions," he said.

"Unusual Procedure" "It would be a rather unusual procedure for a chairman to serve three or four months and be asked to resign."

"I thought she did an effective job during the campaign. If in the interest of reconciling the party, a majority of the (Democratic National) Committee comes to feel that a change ought to be made, they could always do that."

McGovern said he had not talked to Mrs. Westwood since the election. That contradicted what she told reporters at a news conference Thursday. She said she had spoken to him and he supported her in her refusal to step aside.

McGovern refused to say whether he would take an active role in fighting to retain her. "I'd want to reserve judgment on that," he said.

She was installed as McGovern's hand-picked chairman the day after he accepted the presidential nomination last July.

Hasn't Changed Mind Mrs. Westwood was vacationing but a spokesman said she had not changed her mind.

Among those who have been mentioned as possible successors are Lawrence F. O'Brien, who has served twice as national chairman; Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri; former Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina; Joseph Crangle, New York State Democratic chairman; and Robert Strauss of Texas, party treasurer during O'Brien's last term. Texas liberals oppose Strauss.

No Mideast Moves Planned Now

•The New York Times

Washington — The United States and Israel agreed Tuesday on the need to resume at the proper time the long dormant diplomatic efforts for a peace settlement in the Middle East.

But after a lengthy conference between Secretary of State William Rogers and Moshe Dayan, Israel's defense minister, officials on both sides emphasized that there were no immediate plans to set such a diplomatic effort in motion.

A high-ranking State

Department official said the United States had no present intention of again proposing to the Egyptian government the start of discussions for the reopening of the Suez Canal as the first step toward a broader settlement.

The United States had proposed his type of "interim settlement" to Israel and Egypt more than a year ago. The plan foundered because of Egyptian insistence on major Israeli withdrawals from the occupied Sinai Peninsula.

American and Israeli officials agreed Tuesday that the time was not ripe now, nor in the foreseeable future, for a resumption of this diplomatic approach.

In interviews, the officials cited the uncertainties in the Egyptian domestic situation after most of the Soviet military personnel had departed from Egypt last July, and the subsequent political problems facing President Anwar Al-Sadat, as reasons for refraining now from new diplomatic initiatives.

Officials also noted that it would be useless to start such negotiations prior to the debate on the Middle East situation in the United Nations General Assembly which is scheduled to open Nov. 28.

Young Sailors Reminded Of Discipline

Washington (AP) — As the Navy was completing disciplinary action against rebellious crewmen from the carrier Constellation, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. warned young enlisted men Tuesday that strict discipline will not be sacrificed as a price for liberalized reforms.

"I expect, and will continue to insist upon, the strictest possible adherence to our disciplinary standards in every respect," the chief of naval operations declared.

"Those who do not accept these standards can expect to be promptly and fairly disciplined and held responsible for their actions under the Uniform Code of Military Justice," he said.

The admiral's stern remarks, in a message to all hands, were aimed specifically at enlisted men between the ages of 18 and 20 with less than a year of service.

Zumwalt singled them out as making up the overwhelming majority of those "involved in recent incidents of violence or other disruptive activity."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

With changes in the residency law and students altering their credit hour patterns, the University of Nebraska, both at Lincoln and Omaha, stands to lose possibly as much as $1.4 million this year. That would be the drop in enrollment income as a result of the above two situations.

The residency law was changed in conformity with a finding of the State Supreme Court and gives local status to several hundred students who would otherwise be classified as non-residents. That, of course, means a few hundred dollars difference in income for each of those students.

The change in pattern involves students going full-time but taking fewer credit hours per semester. A 15 or 16-hour load has been considered normal in the past and is essential if a student is to graduate in four years with a bachelor's degree.

Since tuition is keyed to the number of credit hours taken, those hours affect university income. Students in growing numbers have been electing to take fewer hours these days, many dropping to the minimum 12-hour load for qualification as a full-time.

There is nothing to figure out in regard to the residency situation. The law has been changed and that is that and we now have probably a little more equitable situation than we had in the past, even though it is costing us money.

But the credit hours pattern is another story because it might tell us something about the times in which we live. The big imponderable in this is why the students are taking fewer hours.

A number of possible answers suggest themselves. For one thing, more and more students are continuing to go on to higher education. This includes more and more students from the middle to lower academic ranks in high school. Some of these students are undoubtedly taking fewer than the normal credit hours in an effort to make it in the classroom.

Some of these students might find it exceedingly difficult, especially in the first year at the university, to make the grade while carrying 15 or 16 credit hours. But they may find they can pass in all subjects if they are taking only 12 to 14 hours.

That doesn't seem like much but it is the difference between three or four and four or five courses. It means the student has one whole course fewer to worry about and that means many hours of study per week.

The situation, also, probably reflects economic conditions. It costs less to take 12 hours than 15 or 16 and a few students are probably at a lower hour figure because of lack of finances and, perhaps an accompanying need to work while going to school.

The fewer hours serve both ends. It means less capital outlay and it means more time available for working. These, in turn, relate back to ability. If you have to work and are of only average ability, you lack the time demanded for study if carrying a full semester schedule.

Thus, some of the lower credit hour students probably are proceeding under multiple difficulties of ability and finances. That they would stick to it, of course, is really a credit to them but it does affect the economics of the institution.

We are not among those who think that higher education ought to be limited in artificial ways. We think it ought to be available to any and all with the will to achieve it and that a C student is just as valuable to society as the A student.

Additionally there is probably more uncertainty with young people today about the future than ever before. As a result, many of them see no magic in the standard four years of higher education.

With an indefinite future, it makes no difference to them whether they complete their schooling in four, five or six years. Thus, a 12-credit-hour semester serves them as well as 15 or 16 hours.

There are probably many other considerations involved but these are some of the things that now have the university in a financial pinch.

YORICK BLUMENFELD

The Silver Anniversary For England's Royalty

LONDON — It was the summer of 1939. A gawky girl of 13 fell in love with a fair-haired, blue-eyed six-footer. "Elizabeth stood absolutely still. The color drained from her face. Then it rediffused and went red. But she still stared at him and for the rest of the day she followed him everywhere glancing toward him with undiluted admiration." So goes one account of the first meeting of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on Nov. 20.

Accompanied by their four children, the royal couple plan to drive from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey in an open carriage to commemorate the occasion. The queen has decreed that the anniversary be marked by a public holiday for all school children. Couples married on the same day in 1947 are invited to a special thanksgiving service.

Pomp and pageantry are to be the order of the day. A state luncheon will be given by the Lord Mayor at Guildhall. Afterwards, Elizabeth and Philip will walk to the site of the Barbican Arts Center, where they will unveil the building's foundation stone.

Only later that night will the queen officiate at a private, family party. A spokesman for the royal household told Editorial Research Reports: "As if often the case with the queen, her private life must take a public form." The Buckingham Palace staff has stocked up on silver teaspoons, ashtrays, and other items for the occasion. For the uninvited, royal silver wedding coins are being struck by numerous private mints.

Life has not always been easy for Prince Philip, now 31 years old. Before his marriage he was Lt. Philip Mountbatten, a naval officer, who had been born into the Greek royal family. He became a naturalized British subject on March 18, 1947.

Over the years, Philip has gradually switched from playing polo all the time to selling Britain and the monarchy as a kind of royal public relations man. He has described himself as "one of the most governed people you could hope to meet."

Philip never has sought to become part of the British aristocracy. Some people contend that he is much too direct and outspoken for such a role. Ray Bellisario, a photographer who hounds the royal family, recalls that Philip once told him in front of a large gathering in Scotland: "Why don't you go back where you came from?" Bellisario replied, in Greek, "Thank you very much."

Despite rumors to the effect that the queen gets lonely watching the telly in the palace while Philip roams the world, their marriage is generally accounted a happy one. A major reason why the royal family remains so immensely popular is the pleasure that people derive from make-believe. Opinion polls show that a large part of the population believes that it is the queen who sets standards of family and personal behavior in Britain.

Walter Bagehot, the 19th Century essayist and editor of The Economist, once wrote that "we must not let in daylight upon magic." In keeping with this dictum, the royal couple have tried to keep their intimate life as secret as possible. Not that there is much to hide. Royal chronicler Andrew Duncan asserts that, from the first day she met Philip, "Elizabeth never looked at another man."

A Golden Opportunity

Adversity often brings out the finest in people and such a situation may exist today.

In the days ahead may lie a golden opportunity for urban-rural cooperation and understanding, if only it is capable of being organized.

The storm this week will leave many acres of corn incapable of harvesting through any mechanical means. It would be a fantastic thing if the people in the cities of the state could be recruited into an army of volunteers to help farmers gather corn through plain old hand-picking.

A logical source of help would be the hunters, fishermen, campers, hikers, environmentalists and other outdoor types who value the land and appreciate the stewardship of rural America. If these people would be organized, informed as to where and when they could be used, they might turn out in large numbers to help in the corn harvest.

There are organizations that might investigate the spearheading of such an effort, such as the Lincoln Sierra Club, the Izaak Walton League and others. Businesses and industries in the state might be asked to let off so many employees at certain times to help in such a campaign to clean up the corn.

If hunters alone would spend a day on the weekend picking corn rather than looking for birds, they could harvest a lot of the crop and enjoy a day outdoors at the same time.

Not only might such a thing save the state hundreds of thousands of dollars, but think of what it would do for urban-rural relationships. Think of the good will and improved relationships that would exist between farm and city people if such a thing could be brought to fruition.

If big enough, it could attract for Nebraska a degree of national publicity unprecedented in the past. Consider the impact of thousands of men, and the women, too, who were interested, fanning out over fields to save lost corn crops. Other groups that might think about trying to arrange such an effort would be the farm organizations such as Farm Bureau, NFO, The Grange and Farmers Union or an urban organization such as a Chamber of Commerce. Even Gov. J. James Exon might consider the use of his good offices to get something like this off the ground and the corn in silos.

Wallace A Factor?

In reviewing his crushing election defeat at the hands of President Nixon, Sen. George McGovern Monday attributed the loss to two major factors: the absence of an independent campaign by George Wallace and the ability of the President to manipulate public opinion.

The press couldn't "lay a glove on Nixon," the Democrat said. "The press had no trouble getting at me but they could never break through the wall at the White House. On even the most scandalous things the President would have no comment at all."

Maybe it does seem that way, that the President successfully manipulated public opinion. But the fact of the matter is that all of the allegations cast at Nixon, from his suspiciously political handling of the Vietnam war settlement to the scandalous activities attributed to some within his administration and re-election apparatus, were fully reported in the media. It was all there for everyone to see and the President's silence should have been damaging only to him. It was a matter of people either not reading and listening or not caring. More to the point would be an assertion by McGovern that a major cause of his defeat was a lack of a sense of outrage on the part of the voters.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Kennedy Most Likely Candidate In Four Years; Sense Of An Unfulfilled Obligation Remaining

NEW YORK — After the Democratic convention in Miami last July, one politician and only one asked party officials for an analysis of how the new rules just adopted would affect the choice of delegates and the convention in 1976. That was Edward Kennedy.

The intentions of Senator Kennedy are necessarily a prime subject of speculation for Democrats after the disaster of 1972. For he appears, at least at this early moment, the figure most likely to bring back the traditional party supporters who deserted this time without provoking a counter-desertion on the left.

Watching Kennedy in this campaign provided ample evidence of his appeal. He campaigned for Sen. George McGovern all over the country.

Kennedy was at two rallies and two fund-raising parties that day in Los Angeles. But by far his most interesting appearance was with Cesar Chavez at a meeting of the Farm Workers Union. There was a sense of emotional rapport with the largely Chicano group, the migrant workers whom Robert Kennedy knew so well.

That occasion demonstrated one great strength in Edward Kennedy as a potential nominee: His ability to evoke a feeling of understanding, of connection, in the groups needed for a Democratic victory. George McGovern, apart from his other troubles, never really seemed at home with audiences of blacks or ethnics. He was a man from the plains, a stranger to urban people, and he seemed most at home with a corn-fed crowd at the Iowa state fair grounds.

In policy terms, Kennedy's position is not really different from McGovern's. He has been a vigorous critic of the Vietnam war for years; his judiciary subcommittee has done the best studies of civilian damage in Indochina and has tackled the politically delicate subject of amnesty. In matters of economics and health and civil liberties also, Kennedy has been a courageous and effective spokesman for the liberal viewpoint.

But of course his views do not arouse the same doubts and fears as they did in McGovern's case.

It is at that point that he pluses of an Edward Kennedy candidacy may trail off. Chappaquiddick will be seven years old in 1976, but it will not be entirely forgotten. More broadly, there will remain doubts about the judgment and maturity of someone who would be only 44 at the next election. Some admirers of John and Robert Kennedy who were skeptical about their younger brother feel that he has significant y deepened as a senator, but he would still have to convince others of his essential seriousness.

The strongest argument against Senator Kennedy as a candidate for president has to be stated, unpleasant as it is: fear for his physical safety. The possibility of another assassination attempt would never be forgotten by his family or friends; indeed it would be there in the minds of the public, whether consciously thought or not.

TOM WICKER

The Hijack Dilemma

NEW YORK — Sooner or later, an airline hijacking is going to result in a real disaster — hundreds dead in a crash, or a bloody shootout in the sky, or even the reality of something as bizarre as last weekend's threat to crash a hijacked Southern Airline's plane into the Oak Ridge atomic installation.

Probably there is no way to stop hijackings altogether, just as determined efforts, new legislation, improved techniques and the like have failed to prevent assaults on political leaders, or the occasional kidnapping that still occurs. Putting armed marshals aboard all planes is clearly not the answer; they might have some deterrent effect, but not enough, and they raise the odds on what no one should want to happen — an exchange of gunfire in a crowded, pressurized passenger cabin.

Detection procedures at the airports have been recently more stringent; frequent airline travelers know that they probably will have to stand in long lines to have their brief cases or pocket-books checked and that someone will be rummaging through their shirts and underwear if they have carry-on luggage. Electronic devices are supposed to detect metal concealed on the person or in luggage.

Manifestly, these procedures still are not good enough. Just recently, I passed through an electronic detector at a major airport while carrying in a brief case a bulky metal page-numbering device; neither the detector nor the attendants noticed as near as I could tell. Yet the device was bigger and heavier than some small pistols. On the same weekend as the Southern Airlines hijack, I caught a Saturday night flight; but 15 minutes after scheduled departure, the passengers were still at the gate, waiting for the marshals to inspect their handbags. The marshals never came, and the airline finally ordered everyone aboard without inspection.

The three Southern Airlines hijackers apparently were spotted at the gate as fitting the behavior pattern the marshals look for; even so, they got aboard with an arsenal of deadly weapons. No doubt they could and should have been stopped, but they weren't, and although no detection procedure will ever be airtight, here is one area where more obviously needs to be done — responsibility sharply defined, a adequate trained personnel and equipment provided, and meticulous procedures followed.

As one who puts in many long hours on airplanes, I volunteer the idea that it is time for the airlines to ban carry-on luggage entirely — including brief cases, shopping bags, underseat bags, women's handbags if larger than can be inspected at a glance, bundles and parcels of all kinds. Only books, notebooks, magazines and newspapers ought to be permitted, and topcoats ought to be searched by hand as well as by electronics.

This could be done with no great inconvenience to passengers, if as they left the gate they deposited all carry-on luggage in a special container. This would go into the cargo hold last and be off-loaded first, with pickup available in the gate lounge at the departure point. That should not be beyond the capacity of airlines that spend million to advertise their own greatness.

Anyway, inconvenience and delay — perhaps even, on occasion, personal indignity will be necessary if there is to be a real answer to the hijack threat. That answer can only be to make the potential hijacker so sure of detection in advance that few will even try it — just as the F.B.I. has made kidnapping an infrequent crime by its well publicized ability to catch the culprits. It would also help greatly if international agreements removed any possibility of sanctuary for the hijacker.

If that point is ever reached, it will be important that the president, or someone who can make it stick, should order the F.B.I. to stop trying to shoot it out and recapture a hijack plane by force. That is because the less frequent hijacking becomes the more likely that the hijacker will be irrational, desperate or both, and ready to respond without regard to his own or anyone's life.

As it is, the F.B.I. seems altogether too trigger-happy; the Southern Airlines hijacking was not the first in which gunfire was substituted for better judgment, but it was one of the worst. Shooting out the tires of the plane endangered passengers and crew from stray bullets and ricochets; it made the next landing infinitely more perilous to all aboard; and it could either have enraged or frightened the hijackers into desperate response.

Indeed, the shooting of the co-pilot may well have been in reply to this senseless bit of Wild West gun slinging, which could have had no useful purpose. If the sad American willingness to use violence as a response to social unrest is to be extended to airline hijackings, real disaster may be nearer than we think.

Lost Kitten

Hastings, Neb.
I was traveling through Nebraska Monday night during the snow storm and had the misfortune to lose my cat on Highway 80 somewhere between the Pleasant Dale and Milford interchanges.

He is a 14-month-old Persian male, black and white, wearing a gold rhinestone collar and answers to the name of "J.P."

I am working out in central Nebraska for a few days, but will be coming back through Lincoln on my way to Ohio. I have talked to the Lincoln Humane Society and they are willing to pick my cat up and keep him for me, if anyone should have found him.

I would be very grateful to anyone who can help me find "J. P." and will be glad to pay a reward for his return.

Let 'Em Go

Lincoln, Neb.
Last week a poll taken in Sweden (the welfare state) showed that one out of every eight adults wants to get out of the country, having determined there were better places in which to live.

The reason — oppressive taxes.

Colorado was upset by Oklahoma State. Oklahoma was upset by Colorado. Most coaches take these upsets in stride as their image was not at stake.

If I were on the Nebraska team, I would tell the coach to win the rest of the schedule with the freshman team.

Nebraska has the talent but when the chips are down, they lack spirit, spirit to pick themselves up. This reflects the attitude of the head coach.

After all, who hated losing more than the players themselves?

If the neon lettering needs replacing, let the city pay for it. It was the city inspector who made the boo-boo.

NU Deficit Studied By Exon

by The Associated Press
Gov. J. J. Exon says he has not yet made up his mind on whether to support a University of Nebraska effort to make up part of an expected $1.4 million budget deficit with a deficit appropriation of state funds.

A trend for students to take fewer hours and a new residency law which has lowered the number of non-resident students was cited by NU administrators as reasons last week when they told the NU Board of the expected deficit.

"In the first place," said Exon, "when they talk about a deficit appropriation, the first question I'll raise with the board of regents is that for many years we've been told we need additional appropriations because of the steady increase in student credit hours.

"It seems now" that the claim of students taking fewer hours "would be inconsistent" with the earlier contentions, Exon explained.

"There may be some details that would justify that. I do not want to pre-judge the action of the board of regents when it makes its final decision in December," he said.

NU Executive Vice-President Howard Neville told the regents he feels $440,000 could be recovered through a deficit appropriation.

State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the Legislature's Budget Committee, declined comment on the situation.

Relief Fund For Fairbury Family Set Up

Fairbury — A relief fund has been established here for the benefit of the Norman Janssen family, which lost a wife and mother, a home and all personal belongings as a result of Monday's devastating storm.

Mrs. Gertrude Janssen, 30, was killed when she came into contact with a downed wire outside her Fairbury home. The home and its contents were destroyed by fire from the hot line.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Janssen is survived by six children: Ricky, 12; Connie, 10; Tracy, 8; Jimmy, 7; Lori, 3, and Kelly, 17 months. The family is staying with Mrs. Janssen's mother, Mrs. Ilse Graham of Fairbury.

Cash donations are being sent to the Fairbury State Bank, according to Melody Hinrichs of the Blue Valley Community Action Agency.

Miss Hinrichs, who is acting as treasurer of the relief effort, added that clothing, food, toys and other articles for the family should be sent to the Neighborhood Center in Fairbury.

Coalition of Environmental Groups Planned

Omaha (AP) — A statewide coalition of environmentally-active groups from across Nebraska may be formed at a meeting in Grand Island Saturday.

One of the sponsors, Mrs. Jan Postlewait of Waverly, said one of the coalition's goals will be to lobby for environmental legislation.

She said 17 groups attended a preliminary meeting recently in York and others are likely to attend Saturday's meeting starting at 10 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament school.

During the meeting a board of delegates will be elected and bylaws adopted. Also on the agenda will be discussion by Wilderness Society leaders of the federal proposal to create wilderness areas on Nebraska's Valentine and Crescent Lake Wildlife Refuges in the Sand Hills.

Joint Meeting Set

In connection with Optimist International Youth Appreciation Week, the Lincoln Optimist Club will host members of the Junior Optimists at its Thursday noon meeting at the Elks Club.

Growth Rate In Spending For Education Is Down

The growth rate in state spending for higher education is down in Nebraska and 39 other states this year, according to a study published this week by The Chronicle of Education.

The study shows the level of state tax support for higher education in Nebraska dropped from an increase of 46% in the two-year period of 1968-69 to 1970-71 to 17% in the period of 1970-71 to 1972-73.

The comparative figures nationally are 39% and 23%, the study shows.

The figures were compiled by M. M. Chambers of Illinois State University, and were published in the weekly newspaper's Nov. 13 edition.

The Chronicle also said that Nebraska ranks 36th in state support for college operating expense per capita, using Chambers' figures and census data for July 1, 1972.

Chambers' figures on growth in state support showed that total spending is still going up nationally, from $7.7 billion in 1971-72 to $8.5 billion in the current fiscal year.

In all but 10 states, however, the growth rate in the latest two-year period was less than in the previous two years.

Missouri was the only state among those surrounding Nebraska in which the growth rate has increased, from 17 in the two years ending in mid-1971 to 23% in the two years ending next July 1.

In Colorado, the growth rate dropped from 57% to 4%; Iowa, 19% to 16%; Kansas, 19% to 16%; South Dakota 24% to 7%, and Wyoming, 32% to 25%.

In the comparison of state appropriations for higher education per capita, Nebraska's $37.53 puts it fifth in a grouping with the six other states which share borders with the Cornhusker State.

First among the group is Wyoming, whose $53.71 also puts it sixth nationally. Last is South Dakota, where the state support per capita of $33.78 puts it 40th nationally.

Colorado's is $49.80, or ninth nationally; Iowa, $43.80, 22nd nationally; Kansas, $41.80, 27th, and Missouri, $34.18, 39th.

The total appropriation for Nebraska in the current fiscal year was listed as $56,780,000.

The biggest spenders, in total dollars, are California, New York, Illinois, Texas and Michigan, while the states spending the most per capita are Hawaii, Alaska, Arizona, Wisconsin and Washington.

New Jersey's 53% was the biggest two-year increase listed.

Fire Truck, Car Are In Collision At Intersection

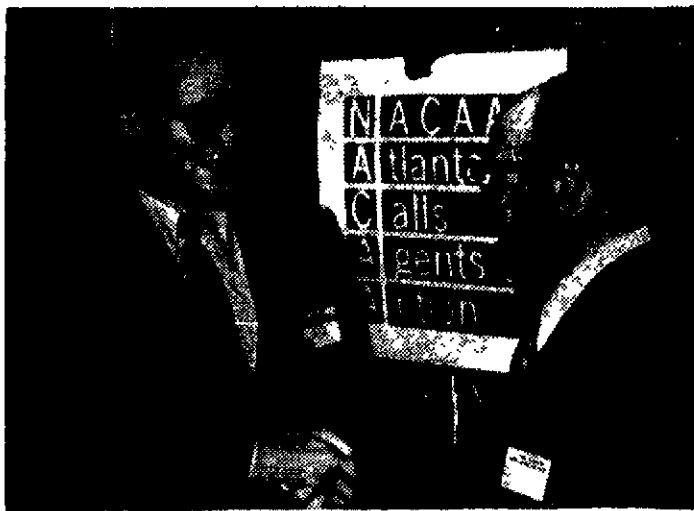

Scottsbluff (AP) — A Scottsbluff rural fire truck on its way to a fire Tuesday was in a collision with a car at an intersection in the city limits.

The truck, which received damage estimated at $500, was enroute to a fire that turned out to be a false alarm.

Officials said the smoke came from a diesel engine in a rural area potato cellar.

Bale An Acre

Memphis — U.S. farmers in 1971 planted 12.2 million acres of cotton, which resulted in production of 10.4 million bales.

JAMES NOVOTNY HONORED

James E. Novotny, left, of Saline County, Neb., receives congratulations from Maurice Ellingson, Dickinson, N.D., upon presentation of the highest honor of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. Novotny was presented the Distinguished Service Award at a banquet in Atlanta, Ga., climaxing the 57th annual meeting of NACAA. Harold J. Strode Receives March Parole Release Date

Harold J. Strode, convicted last year on 13 counts for his part in defrauding the State of Nebraska of $88,500 while he served as state welfare director, will be paroled in March of 1973.

Strode had been sentenced on Oct. 14, 1971, to concurrent terms of seven years on three counts of interstate transportation of fraudulently obtained securities and five years on nine mail fraud counts and one conspiracy count.

Mrs. Marsh, Fowler Maintain Narrow Leads

It looks like challengers Shirley Marsh and Steve Fowler have won legislative seats to the Unicameral after closely fought races with two incumbent state senators, in which absentee ballots could have sent the incumbents back to the State Capitol.

However, with the absentee and disabled ballots counted, records at the Lancaster County Election Commissioner's Office still show both Mrs. Marsh and Fowler maintaining narrow leads over Sen. Fern Orme and Sen. William Swanson.

Mrs. Marsh, wife of Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, now leads Mrs. Orme by 506 votes in the 29th Legislative District race. Before the disabled and absentee ballots were counted Mrs. Marsh led by 665 votes.

Mrs. Marsh received a total of 7,437 votes, compared to 6,851 cast for Mrs. Orme.

Fowler, a 22-year-old college student, now leads Swanson by 159 votes in the race for the 27th district seat. Before the absentee and disabled votes were counted, Fowler led by 253 votes.

Fowler received a total of 5,926 votes, while Swanson received a total of 5,767 votes.

Absentee and disabled voters in the 29th District cast 276 votes for Mrs. Marsh and 346 for Mrs. Orme. Voters in the Farm Bureau Requests Ag College Chancellor

Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1972 The Lincoln Star 11

"Because of its major importance to the State of Nebraska," the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture should have its own chancellor.

This viewpoint was expressed in a resolution adopted Tuesday by the Nebraska Farm Bureau House of Delegates during the bureau's annual convention in session here.

"We believe the agricultural college should be directly under the president, having its own chancellor at the same administrative level as the chancellors at UNL, UNO and the UN Medical College," the resolution read.

The bureau favors increasing all motor fuel taxes rather than to proceed with bonded indebtedness, if additional highway funds are necessary.

On state aid to education, the bureau recommended the use of minimum levies to qualify for state aid to education be discontinued. "The measurement of aid in dollars alone is better than attempting to devise formulas using equalization aid tied to minimum mill levies in addition to foundation aid," the resolution stated.

School lands should be sold to private use and the proceeds invested for the benefit of the schools, is the bureau's policy in another recommendation. "Preservation of the lands for purposes other than education is inconsistent with the intention of the original grant," it was pointed out.

"Where possible school lands should be returned to private use to insure a future contribution in taxes to the community and county in which they are located with the state retaining mineral rights for 20 years," the resolution says.

Other resolutions adopted by the House of Delegates, the bureau's governing body included:

—Support development of the new statewide independent system of locally governed technical community colleges. Expansion of existing facilities within the districts, if necessary, favored but duplication of facilities by competing government agencies opposed.

—Favor not less than a 55% majority vote to carry a school bond election.

—Support the use of adequately trained personnel to teach health and biology classes to students after they reach the fifth grade.

—Oppose reinstatement of any property tax for state government.

—Favor reciprocal taxation of livestock between counties where livestock is kept in more than one county during the year.

—Continuation to work toward correction of inequitable burden of personal property, taxation and other inequities in tax system.

—Effort should be made to provide a more uniform method of property evaluations within the state at a reasonable cost to the taxpayer.

—Favor farm and ranch people being allowed to place signs on their property along highways stating their names and including advertising of individual interests.

—Recommend that the slow moving vehicle emblem be required for use on all public roads.

—Recommend that Nebraska enact farm labor legislation that should insure individual workers the right to a secret ballot in determining whether he wants to belong to any union and which union, if any.

—Environmental standards of the state should not exceed those of the federal government.

—Use of car bodies as an effective erosion control method recognized, but urge placing them in such a manner that they do not become an eyesore.

—Urge Environmental Control Council proceed with understanding and patience in its implementation of livestock pollution control regulations.

—Membership on natural resource boards should be limited to individuals whose major interest and source of income is derived from operations directly involving land, water, forest or other resources involved.

—Oppose granting the State Game Commission authority over more federal lands.

—Oppose the addition of readily-convertible annual weeds of general distribution to the noxious weed list.

—Issue of capital punishment should be determined by the respective states and left to the decision of voters if the issue arises.

—Favor requiring Nebraska Department of Agriculture to take immediate action on a program to continue to permit state to market hogs in California. Favor start of brucellosis free area program for Nebraska.

—Oppose any directive agency of the federal or state government attempting to influence the vote in any referendum.

—Recommend a study of the entire structure, programs and service of the Farm Bureau in relation to the future needs of the state's farmers and ranchers.

—Favor that bureau work with insurance industry and the legislature in the development of a modified no-fault insurance plan after consultation and approval of major provisions by bureau directors.

—Favor that labels on meat contain the percentage of filler and a listing of other additives to assist consumers in distinguishing between pure and blended product.

—Oppose legalization of marijuana and favor vigorous enforcement of penalties for its illegal possession and distribution.

—Favor no hunting license be required for coyotes, due to excessive numbers.

—Favor repeal of the local options sales tax law and will oppose local income taxes. Thousands of non-resident citizens shopping in Omaha and Lincoln are forced to pay sales taxes for cities in which they do not receive substantial services.

—Support stronger enforcement of monetary fines, suspension of right to drive, with increasing penalties for repeat offenders in effort to cope with increasing highway accident problem.

Holcomb, Kan., Still Remembers Clutter Slayings After 13 Years

Holcomb, Kan. — A harsh north wind whips dust through Holcomb, battering a few worn stucco dwellings before losing itself in the western Kansas plains. Ponies tied to fence posts shake their manes in the wind and a dog lopes down a deserted dirt street.

Holcomb is a quiet town. Discounting the gas station (3.2 beer, soda pop, a few groceries) the only gathering place with refreshments is El Rancho Cafe, and in an adjacent room a bar named Something Else.

Holcomb's few streets, mostly unpaved, often are empty. Thirteen years ago today, however, the streets were jammed with cars belonging to law enforcement people, ambulance attendants and the curious. For Holcomb had just been stunned by four murders.

Well Known
Subsequent reverberations would make the town known to millions.

It was early Sunday morning, Nov. 15, 1959, when Herb Clutter, 48, his wife Bonnie, 45, and their two youngest children, Nancy, 16, and Kenyon, 15, were blasted point-blank with a shotgun by two ex-convicts with no previous records of violence. The motive was robbery.

The murders shocked the town, for Herb Clutter was a prominent farmer, and he and his family were well-liked. But the murders probably would have been forgotten had author Truman Capote not read a New York Times story about the killings and decided to use them as a vehicle for his book "In Cold Blood."

Capote went to Holcomb shortly after the slayings. He spent nearly a year and a half in the area conducting research. He followed the hunt, capture, trial and imprisonment of the two killers, Richard Hickock and Perry Smith, until they were executed April 14, 1965.

The book inspired a movie, also named "In Cold Blood," which was filmed in the town.

For a while after the killings, Holcomb was gripped by fear, gossip and controversy. But 13 years has allowed the town to relax and to grow, relatively unscathed by the experience. The population is up 25%, from about 270 at the time of the slayings to 340 today. The school has a new addition. There are new homes, a new water tower, a new post office.

Curiosity-seekers still stop to view the house near town where the Clutters were slain. Once a "showcase," the house now seems weatherbeaten.

Want To Forget
Townspoeple no longer discuss the murders or the aftermath. They would like to forget.

"It was such a long time ago that it almost seems like it never happened," one woman said.

Mrs. Wilma Kidwell, a vocal music teacher at the Holcomb school, is one who would like to forget. She knew the Clutters well, and her daughter, Susan, was Nancy Clutter's best friend. Susan and another girl discovered the bodies.

"I don't think there was anyone closer to them than my daughter and I," Mrs. Kidwell said. "My daughter practically lived out there."

Mrs. Kidwell said her daughter spent the weekend before the slayings at the Clutter farm.

"I've always been very grateful that it wasn't that weekend."

In 1960, Mrs. Kidwell moved from Holcomb, where she lived at the time of the slayings, to nearby Garden City.

"There were just too many memories there," she said. "It was easier just to go to school and not live with the whole situation."

But the memories linger.

She still gets letters — some addressed to her daughter — from all over the country asking questions about the book and their experiences. She said she does not send them on to her daughter, who is married and a commercial artist in New York, because "she wants to forget." Nor does Mrs. Kidwell answer any.

Memories come in other ways.

"The other day," she said, "a girl in junior high came to me and said, 'Mrs. Kidwell, are you the person mentioned in that book?' And I said yes. 'Well,' she said, 'I'm just now reading the book, and I couldn't believe it.'"

New Generation

"So this is a whole new generation practically coming in now, you see, and they're just reading the book to get the particulars because we just don't talk about it much anymore."

Mrs. Kidwell said she doesn't think all the publicity after the murders has affected Holcomb much.

"I think people just took it in stride, and they're all so busy with their own problems and making a living," she

UNL Student Visits Murder Site

Editor's Note: Thirteen years ago today, the bodies of four slain members of a Kansas farm family were discovered in Holcomb, Kan. When the killings were described by Truman Capote in his book "In Cold Blood," Holcomb became a center of national attention. What happens to a Kansas village that is the scene of perhaps the most-publicized murders of the 20th century? A University of Nebraska-Lincoln School of Journalism senior, James Pratt, visited Holcomb recently to find out. The author is from Ames, Iowa.

said, "there isn't much spoken anymore."

For a time, though, many townspeople were unhappy about Capote's book, she said. "They didn't like it at all because they thought it should be allowed to quiet down."

"People were very indignant out there," Mrs. Kidwell remembers. "You didn't discuss it much. If you did, you got into an argument. So I just kept still. And my daughter didn't talk about it, period, because it was just too close to her."

Mrs. Kidwell has a hardcover copy of "In Cold Blood" with a short statement of affection written in small, unassuming letters and signed "Truman."

"He was so nice to Susan and me," she said, "he's a very fine gentleman, very, very intelligent."

"I'll never forget when he came into school the first time. He's a funny looking creature. He had on a Russian-type fur hat and a long coat with a V-shaped fur collar — it was very cold — and he's short and his voice is so nasal and high. I couldn't figure out at first whether he was a man or a woman."

Mostly Accurate

She said she found the book almost perfectly accurate. Except for one thing — the ending.

"At one time when he was here," she said, "he was just frantic. He couldn't get the ending."

Capote finally decided on a scene in which Susan and the detective who investigated the murders talk while visiting the Clutter graves.

"He just made up that ending, which didn't hurt anything," Mrs. Kidwell said, smiling. Susan didn't go to the cemetery — "she could've, it was plausible, but she really didn't. I don't think she was even here."

Mrs. Kidwell said she had not seen the movie. "I didn't want to. I didn't think I could."

Many townspeople objected to the movie because Herb Clutter had been widely respected and they felt there was something unpleasant about making a film of the tragedy.

A. E. Galloway, Holcomb school superintendent since 1968, said of townspeople's objections: "They thought it was too bad that people were morbid enough to make money over such a situation, and that's what this film was for."

Nebraska Returns To Near-Normal

Nebraskans shoveled their way back to near-normalcy Tuesday following Monday's unexpected late autumn snowstorm.

Highways across the state were all open Tuesday, but "very rough in spots as the ice was starting to break up," according to the State Department of Roads. Many of the roads earlier had been blocked in spots by stalled vehicles.

Lincoln's public communications and transportation systems seemed well on their way to full recovery following Monday's snow storm.

City street crews were still at work late Tuesday night, sanding ice spots, removing snow in the downtown area and plowing residential districts.

"It's still a 24-hour operation," a spokesman for the street department said. "We'll probably work straight through until morning. A few residential areas are still pretty badly snowed in."

Damage to telephone and power lines caused by Monday's storm had reportedly been repaired by late Tuesday night.

Spokesmen for the Lincoln Electric System and the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. said service was back to normal.

Trains, planes and buses were also reported to be running nearly on schedule by Tuesday night.

The wet snow, accompanied by high winds, toppled many telephone and power lines, particularly in southeastern Nebraska.

An LRT&T spokesman said work crews still face a huge task in restoring some 800 damaged rural lines which left about 5,000 telephones out of service. Lincoln service was virtually back to normal with only about 200 phones still out, it was reported.

The storm was blamed for the death of one person and possibly at least two others in the state.

Mrs. Gertrude Janssen, 30, Fairbury mother of six children, was electrocuted Monday when she tripped and fell on a live wire just outside her back door.

Frank E. Rodgers, 75, Kearney, was found dead in his car in the driveway of his home, but no direct link had been established between his death and the storm.

And Harvard City Commissioner Elmer Shore was found dead in a maintenance vehicle he was driving just east of Harvard on a Clay County road. He died of an apparent heart attack.

Some schools remained closed Tuesday, but most were open after many across the state were either shutdown Monday or sent students home early.

Massive traffic tieups Monday, especially in the Lincoln and Omaha areas, resulted from the storm which dumped up to 13 inches of snow near Stapleton, 12 inches at David City, 10 at Hastings, 8 at Ogallala, McCook and Omaha, seven at Lincoln, Grand Island and West Point, and at least six at Alliance, Scottsbluff and Sidney.

Lincoln police said Tuesday that a total of 31 traffic accidents were reported.

The storm took a major portion of the state by surprise, particularly eastern Nebraska. The original forecasts called for "a chance of rain, possibly mixed with light snow."

Baby Girl Is Born At Gas Station

Omaha (AP) — Dave Sampson thought his job as a service station attendant couldn't get any more hectic than it already was — until he was called on to help deliver a baby girl in a blinding snowstorm.

Sampson, 25, was hard at work on the city's west side Monday evening when Jack McPherson pulled up in a Volkswagen and said he wanted to phone an ambulance; his wife was in labor and traffic was snarled by a late autumn snowstorm that blanketed eastern Nebraska.

"It was about 30 degrees and snowing so hard you couldn't see across the street," Sampson said. He walked out to the car to comfort McPherson's wife, Zoraida, 28. McPherson no sooner returned to the car than the baby decided it was time to come into the world.

"You read about these things and see them in the movies but you don't believe it until it happens," Sampson said.

Mrs. McPherson gave birth to a daughter, Jaclyn Lee. Mother and child were reported in good condition at a local hospital Tuesday.

His father was mayor of Omaha from 1954 to 1961.

Last Man's Club Elects O'Connell

Nebraska City — J. J. O'Connell of Santa Clara, Calif., was chosen president of the Last Man's Club of Nebraska City at the group's annual meeting here. New vice presidents of the World War I veterans club are Louie Peterson and Rudy Schruender. Albert Bachler was re-elected chaplain.

to make money, as was the book.

"There were others who felt differently," he said.

"They saw a chance to get a page in the movie. It was a curiosity. You don't see a movie, crew out here very often."

One souvenir of the film crew's visit hangs on a pillar outside El Rancho Cafe — a framed photograph of a scene from the movie in which actor John Forsythe is sitting in a booth with a friend.

Uncalled For

Tom Maestas and his family run the cafe. Maestas said he thought Capote's book and all the sensation were uncalled for.

He knew Herb Clutter — "everybody did" — and was shocked like everyone else. But he sees no reason to keep bringing up the tragedy.

"You lose a good man, but you don't stop living. When John Kennedy was killed, America didn't stop. There's always someone to take their place," Maestas said.

Something else, the town bar, still displays a partially shattered sign protruding from its frame: "Holcomb Club," a remnant of past years. Inside is a pool table and jukebox, over which hangs a black light. On the wood-paneled walls hang tapestries and some "peace" and "love" posters.

Bartender Rufus Delgado serves 3.2 beer to anyone over 18.

Delgado said the murders were particularly hard on Bob Rupp, Nancy Clutter's boyfriend and, at first, the principal suspect.

For a time, Delgado said, when Rupp walked into the club, people stopped talking. He said he used to work with Rupp, but that neither ever brought up the subject.

Rupp is now married, has children and lives in a mobile home west of town. He has a machine shop near his home. Townspeople urge the curious not to talk to Rupp about the slayings. They say he has been pestered enough.

Holcomb has been pestered by curiosity-seekers for 13 years. After the movie, tourists' cars lined Highway 50, which cuts through the northern part of Holcomb, while people stopped in the cafe where the actors had been, Delgado said.

The Clutter house can be seen from Highway 50 but can be reached only by driving through Holcomb. "No trespassing" signs have been removed. They didn't work.

Home Not Kept Up

The house and yard have not been kept up like they were when the Clutters lived there. The pink paint is fading and peeling (the house used to be white). The yard is barren in spots and choked with weeds in others. The garden is overgrown.

There have been two owners since the Clutters lived there. The first didn't last long. "There were so many people going out to look at the place that it just drove them away," one woman explained.

The current owner lives in the house by himself, and raises corn and cattle. On the south edge of the property, just north of the Arkansas River, is a large feedlot.

The growth of feedlots and the expanded cultivation of corn are two changes in agriculture that have touched Holcomb since 1959.

Holcomb was incorporated in 1961 and is part of the Holcomb-Garden City-Finney County planning commission. New housing is expanding Holcomb in three directions. Garden City and Holcomb are inching toward one another and some Holcombites foresee their community becoming a suburb of "Garden," as they call it.

The Holcomb consolidated school (which has more than 400 students) recently added a new lunchroom, kitchen, office space, classrooms, industrial shop, athletic dressing room, a gymnasium expected to seat 1,500, and a heated swimming pool.

Low-income houses and a trailer court offer new housing.

A year-old water tower, with the head of a longhorn emblazoned beneath the town's name, squats in the middle of Holcomb.

New Post Office

And there is the new, brick post office, something Supl. Galloway and others call "the only good thing that came of (all the publicity surrounding the Clutter slayings)."

Larry K. Earnest, postmaster since 1961, also credits the publicity and Capote's literary efforts with winning Holcomb its new post office. "We wouldn't have had a new post office without 'In Cold Blood,'" he said.

Earnest laughs when he describes how he had been trying for years to get the government to replace the crumbling old shack that was the post office at the time of the slayings.

One letter he wrote to postal officials described the building and asked: "You don't want your flag flying in front of something like that, do you?"

Holcomb was close to 50th in priority for a new post office. Earnest said, until photographs of the old one were splashed across Life magazine and a nationwide television.

Then, suddenly, the town had first priority and the new one was dedicated in January 1967.

Earnest thinks highly of Capote and "In Cold Blood." "The movie wasn't as good as the book," he said, calling the book "a literary masterpiece." He said there were one or two inaccuracies in the book but that they were the result of misinformation given to Capote.

Mayor Unhappy

One Holcombit who did not care for Capote or his reporting efforts is Mayor Wayne R. Johnson. He has been mayor since the town was incorporated in 1961.

Johnson lives next door to the new post office. He is a stocky man with glasses and a broad smile.

Johnson said he was unhappy about the book, the movie and publicity about the Clutter killings.

"I wouldn't give 'em the satisfaction," Nor has he seen the movie, which he wishes hadn't been filmed in his town.

Johnson said he met Capote when the writer was working on the book, but was not impressed.

"Did you ever meet Truman Capote? I did, and that'd sour you on just about anything. It was like shaking hands with a dead fish."

He said the town used to get a lot of mail asking for information about the slayings and their aftermath, most of which was ignored.

There are some people involved who have not ignored requests for information. Alvin A. Dewey, for example. Dewey is a Kansas Bureau of Investigation special agent who led the search for the murderers and who is mentioned frequently in Capote's book.

His wife, Marie, said: "Alvin still gets letters, mainly from students who are in classes where they're studying the book and they want to know his opinion and they want to know that."

"He answers every one," she said, "because we have boys and we know what it means to them to get their assignments completed, or if they write for information, they want a reply."

Mrs. Dewey works for a Production Credit Association office across the street from the Finney County Courthouse in Garden City, where her husband and other investigators struggled to solve the crime and where the killers eventually were tried, convicted and sentenced to die.

Caused Sensations

She talked during her lunch hour over pizza and iced tea in her Garden City home about the effects of the murders and ensuing sensation on her and her husband's lives.

Aside from the telephone calls and letters requesting information and the fact that they are now close friends of Truman Capote, "it hasn't changed our lives," she said. "The only bad thing about it (the publicity) is that we are constantly contacted by people asking questions. And you'd think after 13 years maybe people would be stopping. We'd like to forget it like everybody else, but we can't."

Mrs. Dewey talked about their friendship with Capote — a friendship that takes them to Capote's parties in New York and his retreat in Palm Springs.

"Our family has kind of become Truman's family. We visit him in New York and we've gone to Palm Springs. In fact, we've used his home in Palm Springs twice, when he wasn't even there. He is a wonderful person. He still calls once or twice a week," she said.

The Deweys were guests of Capote at a celebrated masquerade ball he threw in New York in 1964. "We were just treated royally," Mrs. Dewey said. "People think jet-set, you know, a bunch of snobs. But you'll find people are no different, regardless of who they are or how much money they have."

Met Jackie

Mrs. Dewey met Jacqueline Kennedy two years later at a cocktail party thrown by Capote and recalled what the former first lady told her. "She said, 'Oh, Mrs. Dewey, I've been so anxious to meet you. I thought of you so when I read the book, the suspense you must have been in, the trying time it was.'"

Mrs. Dewey said it was ironic. "I said to her, 'Well, you're saying to me exactly what I feel about you.' She was sorry for me in my position and I was feeling sorry for her in her position."

Capote invited the Deweys to New York for the premiere of "In Cold Blood," something Mrs. Dewey said she dreaded doing more than anything she ever had to do.

"I particularly didn't want to see the part where they murdered the Clutters," she said.

As it turned out, the scenes with the Clutters were brief and did not portray the murders.

"It really wasn't as hard to see as I expected," Mrs. Dewey said. "Though I sat there trembling the whole time."

One Complaint

Mrs. Dewey had only one major complaint about the film. "What I didn't like about the movie, and we told Richard Brooks (the director), is that he slanted it so sympathetically toward Perry Smith. Now, Truman felt some compassion for Perry Smith because he could relate his life to Perry's, to an extent — unhappy childhood."

"But Truman said you come to the crossroad and you can either make something of yourself, or go down the wrong road — and that's what Perry Smith chose to do."

She said that although Capote does not believe in capital punishment he admits that if Smith or Hickock had ever been released, they would have killed again — especially Smith.

Mrs. Dewey said the time after the murders and before the killers were executed took a heavy toll on her husband.

"I thought, the Clutters were four victims and Alvin was going to be the fifth, because he was on trial for those six years and not Smith and Hickock. Every time their attorneys took it to another court, Alvin had to take the stand, and he was interrogated. Smith and Hickock never took the stand."

While her husband was investigating the murders, Capote was conducting his own investigation.

'Not True'

"Some people thought, 'Oh well, you've become good friends because Alvin gave him so much information.' Well, that is not true," Mrs. Dewey said. "When Truman was here, Alvin didn't answer a single question that he or Harper Lee had other than what was given in the press conferences."

Harper Lee, author of "To Kill a Mockingbird," often accompanied Capote to Holcomb.

Mrs. Dewey said Capote tried to coax her husband into giving him inside information on the case. "He would say, 'Well, I'm not a reporter; what I'm going to do is going to be years later; you can talk to me.' But Dewey never gave the writer inside information and Capote was unaware of leads the investigators were tracking down."

"He gave Alvin the nickname 'Fox.' One time Truman asked him a question and Alvin didn't tell him yes and he didn't tell him no, so Truman said, 'You're just being fox.'"

So Capote did his own investigating and got his answer.

"He's always been proud of the fact that he'd be a good detective," Mrs. Dewey said, "and he would."

After the killers were apprehended there was no reason to keep the investigation secret anymore so the Deweys then did talk to Capote. They have been good friends since.

Friendship with Truman Capote is one pleasant side-effect for some in Holcomb and Garden City of what otherwise was an uncomfortable experience.

Visitors rarely come to Holcomb anymore. Tourists are not so plentiful as before. Local conversation has returned to ordinary things — now good the harvest is, when they're going to hunt some of those pheasants, how busy their children are with school activities.

Though the memories are still there, they have been shoved to the backs of peoples' minds. It is doubtful they will ever be completely forgotten. But if townspeople ever do forget, it will be because outsiders let them.

Tracy Critical Of Yeutter Statement

Grand Island (UPI) — Howard Tracy, Grand Island, former Hall County GOP Chairman, said Monday he objects to a recent statement by Clayton Yeutter, midlands agricultural director for the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Yeutter, a former key aide to former Gov. Norbert Tiemann, has been quoted as saying that the Republicans should learn from the defeat of Sen. Jack Miller in Iowa and the close call of Sen. Carl Curtis in Nebraska that a man cannot keep being reelected just because he was elected several times before.

Tracy said he resented the implication that supporters of the two senators did not work hard enough in their campaigns. He said Richard Spelts of Grand Island and many others all made great personal sacrifices to reelect Curtis.

Tracy said he objected to Yeutter's casting blame upon others when he knows "his own campaign strategy may have contributed to the losses by Senator Miller of Iowa and Senator Allott in Colorado."

Tracy said many party workers believe that Democrats who were called to vote for Nixon in Iowa and Colorado may have caused the defeats of Miller and Allott.

He said that in Nebraska, no effort was made to call Democrats to the polls who had indicated they would vote for Nixon. If they had been called, he said, "they may well have caused the defeat of Senator Curtis."

Rural Madison Man Killed In Farm Accident

Madison (UPI) — Richard Eggers, 24, of rural Madison was killed in a farm accident Monday, Madison County Sheriff Marvin Adams said.

Mr. Eggers' body was found pinned between a pickup truck and a tractor late Monday afternoon by his wife when she returned home from her job.

Adams said it is believed Mr. Eggers was trying to start the tractor with jump cables when the truck rolled and pinned him between the two vehicles.

Industrial Park Along Riverfront Is Announced

Omaha (AP) — In what is termed the biggest project in the history of the Omaha Industrial Foundation, officials Tuesday announced that 225 acres of land just northwest of Eppley Airfield will be developed as a $10.8 million riverfront industrial park.

No tenants were named. Site preparations are scheduled to begin next spring, it was reported.

The project will be financed by federal and local funds, officials said. It will be part of the Riverfront Development Project, stretching from Blair to south of Bellevue.

THERE IS NEWS ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Promises, promises, promises — that's what we've been making all morning. So, we can't say a word about those fabulous parties that are on the calendar for the approaching weekend because — a promise is a promise.

We may not be able to talk about the parties, but we can add more chapters to the Thanksgiving and Christmas guests story—and, in addition, we have a dinner dance or two to mention.

But first we have another exceedingly interesting guest to mention this morning, and we had thought we might be able to place her in the Thanksgiving category — We can't, however, since she is leaving on Friday.

Everyone will understand what we mean by "interesting" when we tell you that Mrs. Frank Pilling of Philadelphia, whose maiden name was Lee and who is the house guest of her cousin, Mrs. John Litchfield, and Mrs. Litchfield, is the great-great-granddaughter of Richard Henry Lee whose signature may be found on the Declaration of Independence.

Another notable in Mrs. Pilling's family is Robert E. Lee, the famous Confederate general, who is Mrs. Pilling's great-great uncle.

But let's talk for a moment about Mrs. Pilling's host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield are newcomers to Lincoln, having arrived here only two months ago, and they too, are interesting. Mrs. Litchfield, as is her cousin, Mrs. Pilling, is a native of Philadelphia, and Mr. Litchfield calls Maine his native state.

But now they are residents of Lincoln, Neb., and are residing on East Pershing Road.

Plans, Parties

This morning, Miss Donna Beth Hansen, whose marriage to Lyle Ray Johnson will be solemnized on Saturday evening, Nov. 18, at the Sheridan Baptist Church, is announcing the members of the bridal party.

For her maid of honor the bride-elect has chosen Miss Mary Olson of Ceresco, and completing her foursome of attendants will be bridesmaids Mrs. Don Morris of Milford, and Mrs. Phillip Green, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Sheila Kaiser of Davey will be the bridesmaid.

Craig Kreiner will serve Mr. Johnson as best man, and the groomsmen will be James Kubik of Valparaiso; Alan Hansen of Ceresco, and Phillip Green. Serving as ushers will be Gerald Bulling of Raymond; Daryl Bulling of Wichita, Kan., and Ted Bulling.

The past few days have been busy ones for the soon-to-be bride, party-wise.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 4, Miss Hansen and her fiancé shared honors at a dinner party and a one-gift shower for which Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Christensen were host and hostess at their home.

And on the following afternoon, Sunday, Nov. 5, Miss Hansen was the center of attention at an informal party and miscellaneous shower when Mrs. Paul Bulling of Raymond, and assisting hostesses Mrs. Alvin Hellerich of Valparaiso; Mrs. Ted Bulling, Mrs. James Jana, both of Lincoln, and Mrs. Don Morris of Milford, entertained at the home of Mrs. Bulling.

The bride-elect and Mr. Johnson will again share honors on Friday evening, Nov. 17, when Mr. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson will be host and hostess when they entertain the members of the families and the bridal party at dinner at the Villager.

The dinner will follow the wedding rehearsal at the church.

Miss Hansen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Hansen of Davey, will be graduated in December from the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in speech pathology and audiology, and where she is a member of Sigma Alpha Eta honorary.

Mr. Johnson, a student in the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration, also will be graduated in December. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Omicron Delta Upsilon honoraries.

WE HEAR THAT

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Focht (Mary Lunn Fouts) of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, announce the birth of a son, John Anthony, who made his world debut on Saturday, Nov. 11. The recent arrival's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Focht of Bakersfield, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fouts of Lincoln. Great-grandparents are Harry Fouts of South Sioux City and Mrs. Anne Kriege of Alameda, Calif. Mrs. Focht was graduated from the University of Nebraska and is a former French teacher in the Bellevue Public Schools. Mr. Focht plans to graduate in May from the University of Nebraska at Omaha, where he is majoring in education.

Mr. Litchfield is associated with the Cushman Motors Land Division and speaking of the Cushman golf carts, and all of the other land equipment we hear they are to be merged into one large plant—in Lincoln.

And now those Thanksgiving guests—

Arriving next Wednesday will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller of Tucson, Ariz., who will be the guests of Mrs. Miller's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin S. Chesen.

The Chesen household, however, won't be limited to two out of town guests on Thanksgiving Day—Coming from Omaha will be Mr. and Mrs. Chesen's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morris (Cathy Chesen), and Mr. Morris's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Haskell Morris and their daughters, Diane and Stephanie.

But there are more—Old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chesen, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Miller of Indianapolis, Ind., will also be Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chesen.

Dinner will be an evening affair since each and every one of the guests, as well as the host and hostess, will be attending the Nebraska-Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving afternoon.

Yesterday we did some talking about

Chit-Chat with Roxi

Dear Roxi:

I thought after I turned 17 I would have no problem getting to go to "R" rated films. But I was wrong. My parents say just because I'm 17 is no reason for them to change their opinion of "R" rated films. They're against them and that's that. All my friends' parents let them go and I'm left out because my folks won't let me go. Help!

A. First off, do not disobey your parents. As they say, they may have more on the ball than you think. You are not going to change their minds overnight, it takes time. If you wish them to respect your views, then you must respect theirs. You say that all your friends' parents let them go, well I'd have to disagree with that. There are plenty of your friend's parents who don't allow their kids to attend "R" rated films and I can't blame them. Some of the "R" rated films aren't fit for a dog, let alone you. I admire parents who stick to their guns when they think they're right. Give them a little credit. They got you this far, didn't they?

Dear Roxi:

What can you do about someone who talks behind your back and acts as sweet as pie to your face?

A. Kill them with kindness. Don't sink to their low level. Just be nice and friendly and give them nothing to talk about. People don't like those who think it is cute to talk behind people's back. Two-faced people eventually will get a taste of their own medicine.

We'll tell you about all of them later, but this morning we have time for just one—Miss Avery Woods.

Miss Woods, who is careering in the Permanent Collection Gallery at the Minnesota Museum of Art, in St. Paul, will be arriving Christmas weekend to spend the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, Jr., and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, III, and, of course, with her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas C. Woods.

Away back in the beginning we mentioned dinner dances, and you may have guessed that they have to do with dancing clubs.

The first party is Friday evening when the members of the Colonial Club will dine and dance at Hillcrest Country Club. The theme has us a bit puzzled—Is it "Big Game Ball" (hunting) or "Big Game Ball" (football)? Either way it will be a fun party.

In charge of all of the details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Seaton, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Sid Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cirksema, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gadd, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Meierhenry, Mr. and Mrs. Richard White, Dr. and Mrs. Will Ross, and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph McGowan.

Before David Niven made his famous movie "Around the World in 80 Days," he should have looked ahead a few years. He might have discovered that what took him 80 days the Fifty Fifty Club can do in 14 nights and two days—and from right here in Lincoln.

"Around the World in 14 Nights and Two Days" is, of course, the Fifty Fifty Club's party theme for the entire season. The group has done Japan, the United States, and next Tuesday evening, when the members dine and dance at the Elks Club, they will be in Holland.

The party planners include Mr. and Mrs. Guy Harris, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Laymon, co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boerster, Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hays.

RELY ON THE CONVENIENCE OF PARK & SHOP

Know Your Antiques

The paint is flaking on this tin document box made in Pennsylvania about 1820. A lock kept the private papers safe in a small box like this. It was the safe deposit box of its day.

The tinker's dam is gone, but the tinware pieces made by the 19th century tinker are still to be found by collectors.

Tinware was made in Connecticut during the 1700s. It was indecorated and sold as "the poor man's silver". By the 1800s, the tin was being lacquered or "japanned" to keep it from rusting.

The black background was soon decorated with colorful flowers and borders of red, orange, green, white and other colors. Decorations were free-hand to stenciled, usually with unsophisticated flowers, leaves, birds and fruit.

The painted tin was sold in all parts of Eastern states. Peddlers took a load of tin over the stagecoach roads and sold it to the housewives along the way. Sometimes the farm women traded produce for the tin coffee-pots and boxes.

The tin anniversary (10 years) was the occasion for gifts made of tin.

Painted tin can be found with backgrounds of black, dark brown, blue, yellow, red or green. (In case you forgot a tinker's dame was a bit of mud used when the tinsmith was soldering. It was worthless after one using, so the saying "not worth a tinker's dam").

Q — What are bitters? I own several bottles marked "bitters".

A — Packets of bitter herbs were sold during the early 19th century. They were to be added to wine or brandy as an aid in curing minor ills.

Many types of bitters medicines were bottled by the mid-19th century. The bitter herbs were bottled with various alcoholic beverages. The bitters were often packaged in attractive colored bottles.

Some of the shapes included a fish, an Indian princess, a barrel, an ear of corn and a cabin.

The medicinal quality of the bitters seems debatable. Most of them contained herbs for flavor and frequently had a slight laxative effect. It was the high percentage of alcohol that made bitters a soothing drink.

Q — There is a crown, three wavy blue lines, and the word "DANMARK" pictured on the bottom of my blue and white vase. Do you have any clues as to who made it?

A — You own a piece of Royal Copenhagen porcelain.

The mark changed through the years.

The spelling "Danmark" indicates that your vase was made about 1894. This company has made fine porcelains since the 1760s.

Many Collectors prize Copenhagen Christmas plates. They have been issued annually since 1906.

Q — When did E. P. Lehmann make toys? I own a small metal bug that winds up and flaps its wings. The name Lehmann is on the back.

A — E. P. Lehmann first made toys and tin cans in 1831. The scrap from the cans was used in manufacturing the toys.

He worked in Brandenburg Havel, Germany. The firm continues as a family business and they made toys until the end of World War II. The Russians took over the toy factory in 1949.

Mr. Richter, a cousin of the Lehmann family, fled to start another toy factory in Germany. These were made after 1959.

Q — When did Thonet make all the bentwood chairs?

A. Michael Thonet lived from 1796 to 1871. He developed a unique method of bending wood to make furniture with greater flexibility about 1830. He began experimenting with thin strips of wood that were glued together. By 1841, he received a patent on this type of laminated wood.

He founded his own factory in 1849 and made chairs from the curved wood. A short time later, he made chairs by bending solid wood in a metal form. After it was bent, the metal supports were removed and the sod remained in its bent shape. He made hundreds of types of chairs, tables, sofas, chaises and rocking chairs. Most bentwood chairs are called by his name even though his ideas were copied by others. Thonet's patent expired in 1869.

Abby:

not the proper qualifications

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My best friend, a 40-year-old divorcee with two children, joined Parents Without Partners last year. She met a swell man there (a widower with three children) and they are being married soon, and I am so envious I am ashamed of myself.

I would love to join Parents Without Partners and meet a nice gentleman with a family who wants to meet a nice lady with children.

I am 42 and love three wonderful sons who need a father. The problem is I am still married. My husband is never home and I am tired of being both mother and father. If I could find a man who really wanted to stay home and be a family man I would leave the one I'm married to so fast he wouldn't know what hit him.

I wonder if anyone has ever joined that club just to look over the prospects?

PARENT WITH NO PARTNER

DEAR PARENT: Sorry, but you don't qualify for membership in Parents Without Partners, because technically you HAVE a partner. I suggest you get some counseling to improve your marital relationship, and get that silent partner of yours to sing a more cooperative tune. Widows and divorcees have enough competition without married women who would like a change.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79, and I am NOT senile, but something has puzzled me since my teens. I was secretary to a psychiatrist for many years, but could never pick up the courage to ask him about my problem, if you can call it a problem. (Unfortunately, he is dead now.)

I can "see" things that are not there. For instance, I glance down on the floor, and in the figured linoleum pattern I can actually "see" an animal, bird, or the profile of a person! At times I can look again and see the same image, and at other times, no matter how hard I try to see that image again, I can't.

These are not just crazy lines all over the linoleum, yet at a glance they go together to form a distinct image. I can do this with numerous things. I "see" images in trees, whose leaves are swaying in the breeze, in clouds, and in some hodge-podge modern paintings. And if I look a moment later, the images I clearly saw are gone forever.

Can you explain this?
STILL PUZZLED IN PA.
DEAR PUZZLED: The images are conjured up by your imagination, and I dare say there is not a person alive who has not had the same experience, so don't let it bother you.

Opening lead—eight of spades.

Dear Mr. Becker: A fellow can dream, can't he? Well, I have had this hand on my mind for a long time, and if it ever comes up with me holding the West cards, I have the perfect remedy to stop South from making three notrump.

I realize there is very little chance of my ever encountering this particular layout. I know that if I played bridge every single day for the next billion years or two the odds

It is clear to me at this point, for some reason I do not understand, that unless I do discard correctly declarer will make nine tricks consisting of a spade, four hearts, a diamond and three clubs. But since this is the hand I have been dreaming of all these years, I have no trouble finding the right discard. When South takes his ace of spades, I discard the ace of hearts on it!

South may now huff and puff, or seat and strain, but it will get him absolutely nowhere. He can no longer make the grade. I hope that some day this hand will really be dealt to me. Cordially yours, Constant Reader.

Someone like Ford Van Lines. We were one of the first movers in Lincoln and through the years we've made about 400,000 moves—office moves, home moves, short moves, long moves, even moves of art exhibits and electronic equipment.

Our motto is "Your move is completed only when you are completely satisfied." We mean just that too. Our service starts long before the move, with a free estimate and suggestions for a better move. We'll discuss packing, labeling, payment, unpacking, special handling and storage with you. After you're settled, we keep in touch until we're sure that all your belongings are accounted for.

We are now affiliated nationally with Global Van Lines, known as the "Official Disneyland Movers." With a fleet of outstanding movers and a network of modern equipment, Global and Ford Van Lines stand ready to serve you on your next move.

High Official Quits; Time 'Coincidental'

Washington (UPI) — Preston Martin, whose proposals as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB) have drawn congressional fire, announced his resignation Tuesday.

A spokesman said his departure bore no relation to the criticism aimed at Martin or to President Nixon's post-election and widely publicized decision to seek letters of resignation from thousands of appointed officials.

The spokesman, Robert Marshall, said it was "just a coincidence" that Martin's resignation followed Nixon's move for a free hand in overhauling his second administration.

He also said it was coincidental that Martin made his announcement at the same time he was in Miami Beach to deliver a speech outlining FHLBB plans for 1973. The board regulates savings and loans institutions and mutual banks.

The White House also announced the resignation of Horace E. Menasco as administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Labor Department. It said he, too, made his decision to resign before the election.

Proposal Controversial
Martin's speech touched on

Firms To Merge

New York (AP) — The boards of Norton Simon Inc. and Max Factor & Co. have approved the agreement in principle for the merger of the two firms.

Under terms of the agreement, which must still be worked out in detail and approved by shareholders and directors of both companies, Norton Simon would acquire Max Factor for stock worth about $480 million.

his controversial proposal to allow savings institutions to issue mortgages with variable interest rates which could rise or fall as other interest rates fluctuate.

The proposal has drawn sharp fire on Capitol Hill, particularly from Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Martin contended the proposal would enhance the ability to borrow mortgage money during periods of tight money. Patman feels it will cost homeowners more money.

Martin became the first high government official to announce his departure since Nixon's re-election. He made the announcement before the Miami Beach convention of the United States Savings and Loan League.

Before the same group Monday Patman accused the FHLBB of undertaking "overly ambitious administrative grabs." He contended it was seeking to implement without congressional sanction policies in Congress' purview.

Issues Require Study
"These issues require detailed study and open hearings in the Congress," Patman said. "They can't be handled by administration fiat."

Patman also was critical of the FHLBB's intention to terminate the nine-year moratorium on the conversion of mutual savings associations, which are owned by their depositors, to conventional stock companies, owned by shareholders.

Industry observers believe such a step could provide a multibillion-dollar windfall to the millions of depositors in mutual institutions, who would receive shares in the new companies.

"My future plans are not definite except that I will continue to work for housing but in the private sector," Martin said.

Marshall said Martin planned to return to California, where he served as commissioner of the State Department of Savings and Loans until his appointment by Nixon in March, 1969.

TOP YANK

A former congressman from Massachusetts, Bradford Morse, above, is the ranking American in the United Nations hierarchy. Having succeeded the late Dr. Ralph Bunche as undersecretary general six months ago, Morse says the U.N. is "an organization of sovereign states, not a world government."

TV Said Pusher To Junkie Nation

Washington (UPI) — Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson Tuesday called television "the principal pusher of a junkie nation" and urged a grass-roots campaign for legislation to regulate TV drug advertising.

"We've got a drug problem in America," Johnson told a panel of church people holding three days of public hearings on drugs and advertising. "It's called television."

The panel, which includes Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, and William Thompson, stated clerk of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., is exploring the impact of advertising on the drug-taking patterns of American Society.

Earlier, the NCC panel was told by the Proprietary Association, a group of over-the-counter drug sellers, that its surveys indicate advertising has little impact on drug abuse.

Clashes Dim Prospects Of Liberalizing Trade

The New York Times

Geneva — The poor nations, led by delegates from Latin America, clashed with the rich at a conference Tuesday that set up a tentative schedule for what could potentially be the biggest round of negotiations ever for liberalizing world trade.

The dispute was fought over the issue of what the poor countries could expect from the new trade talks, which would be opened at a ministerial conference next September and could possibly be concluded in 1975.

Five years ago the Kennedy Round ended. Named after the late president, it resulted in a one-third cut in tariffs for the major trading countries. But it turned out to be a case largely of the rich helping the rich; although the rich had promised better, the poor ended up with crumbs.

Mrs. Anna Goyeneche, ambassador of Argentina to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade organization here, and Hernan Santa Cruz, ambassador of Chile, led the fight at the windup session of the GATT meeting here to try to get far more this time.

The contracting parties of the GATT, an international trade charter signed in 1947, were meeting here to map plans for the prospective mammoth trade liberalization.

Eighty nations are contracting parties. An additional 20 countries — all poor — sent trade officers to the conference, to insure that their interests would be taken into account.

There was this summing up by Chairman Giorgio Smoquina of Italy: "... Negotiations should aim to secure additional benefits for the international trade of the developing countries so as to achieve a substantial increase in their foreign exchange earnings, diversification of their exports, and an acceleration of the rate of growth of their trade, taking into account their development needs."

Smoquinas's statement, which was supposed to represent an agreed consensus of the meeting, also said that the negotiations "shall cover both industrial and agricultural products, and take particular account of the need to find solutions to the problems of developing countries, including the problems of the least developed countries."

These statements of intent were not good enough for the Latin Americans who in effect staged a seven-hour filibuster to try to get a stronger commitment from the rich countries.

The results of their actions did little more than demonstrate the restiveness of poor countries because the text of Smoquinas's statement went unchanged.

The rich countries in effect threatened to withdraw — "put a reserve on," in the language of the conference — even the concessions that appeared in the Smoquina declaration.

Irish Bomber Gets Life Term

Winchester, England (AP) — A London-based Irishman was convicted Tuesday of killing seven persons in a bomb attack last February at the Aldershot army base.

Noel Jenkinson, 42, was also found guilty of making the explosive, estimated at 100 pounds of gelignite, that killed five women, a gardener and a Roman Catholic priest and injured 17 other persons.

He was sentenced to life in prison.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a tire's tread wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles.....	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month.....	$13.00
40 month.....	10.00
35 month.....	8.00

25 month.....	5.00

SECRET SERVICE AND STAR ACTION LINE Or Write P.O. Box 81669, Lincoln, NE 68501

Phone or write your request to ACTION LINE. (See address above), giving your name or initials, town and specifying your daily or Sunday. Other contacts will be refused. Inquiries not answered within 30 days will be eliminated to permit publication of more recent inquiries.

Last August I sent a check to Clairiol Inc. for an offer for a Kindness Hairsetter advertised nationally in cooperation with Chiquita Bananas. I still have no hairsetter and have now lost the address. What's the problem?

—P.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Margaret Hickes in consumer relations at Clairiol says there has been no major hangup in this offer, just the normal amount of foul-ups when there is such a tremendous response as this one drew.

ACTION LINE: Has received many letters and calls about these hairsetters and advises those who still need satisfaction to write: Margaret Hickes c/o Clairiol, 3545 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. Include full information on the date of your order and a copy of your cancelled check or money order.

I would like to know why so many stop signs have been placed inside the Countryside Mobile Home Estates. Does the owner have the authority to do this? Can he raise our rent? Lots of us out here are angry about such so-called improvements that we don't even want but which we pay for.

—Angry, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Dean Kobler, general manager at Countryside, says the signs were placed as a means of slowing traffic through the estates, particularly speeding non-resident. He says the posted 15 m.p.h. speed limits are frequently ignored.

As an agent of the owner of the Countryside, he has the authority to place and remove signs. Consequently, he will reinvestigate the placement and says "there is a possibility that some could be removed."

He believes that there will be no incras in rent as a result of the signs.

A girlfriend and I would like to join a ladies' barbershop quartet. Whom do we contact for information?

—Lorene Keech, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: There are two ladies' barbershop groups in town. Mrs. Judy Blundell is president of the Barbershop Quartet and Mrs. Warren Urbom is president of the Barbershop Chorus. Contact either of them for information.

I thought the Lincoln sewer use fee was based on the water use of each household during a 90-day winter period. But when I filled out a post card left at my place by the meter-reader last October for the summer period, I noticed a line that said I should be careful to be accurate since this reading would establish the base for my sewer use fee. What goes?

—R.C. Dein, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: J. W. Livengood, business manager of Lincoln's water and sanitary sewer departments, says some outdated cards were distributed to homes lately. The line about the sewer use fee was supposed to have been crossed out.

A check of the records shows that you have been charged for sewer used based on last November, December and January.

I bought a pair of scissors from Cutco Cutlery about a year ago but have not yet had delivery. Can you help?

—Mrs. Rhonda Adams Hatch, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Marlin Eggerling of Cutco says he has tried to mail the scissors twice, but delivery wasn't completed since no one was home. And you have married and moved since the sale, complicating delivery.

But Eggerling says he will make personal delivery immediately. ACTION LINE has given him your new name and address.

We hired Photo Marketing Systems to take pictures of our son's wedding Aug. 26. Since we sent our order in we received a letter stating the pictures would be sent within four days but we have not received them. We are unable to contact the company in Omaha or Kansas City.

—Mrs. James Wythers, Fairmont

ACTION LINE: So are we. Phones have been disconnected and there is no new listing. The Kansas City Better Business Bureau (BBB) reports the firm has been in their files since 1966 and that until about a month ago it had good reports.

Since then, however, there have reportedly been a lot of complaints about delays in delivery of prints and inability of customers to contact the firm.

The BBB of Kansas City is forwarding a complaint form for you to fill out and return for official follow up.

Legislature May Be Asked To Revise Tax Setting Date

By United Press International
The 1973 Legislature may be asked to consider having sales and income taxes set in June rather than in November, it was learned Tuesday.

"I'm considering the possibility of asking the Legislature to have the tax rates match the fiscal year rather than the calendar year," said Gov. J. J. Exon.

Nebraska's sales and income tax rates were set earlier this week by the State Board of Equalization to apply to calendar year 1973.

The fiscal year for state government, however, runs from July 1 of one year to June 30 of the next.

Thus, said Exon, there is always a time lag and a lot more guess-work than would be encountered by setting the tax rates just after the Legislature finished its annual job of mapping out spending plans.

"That we're really trying to do is take a more reasonable and businesslike approach by setting income goals along with spending goals," the governor said. "It's just a matter of efficiency."

The present system of setting tax rates, he noted, was established when the Legislature met every other year instead of every year and thus the time factor was not crucial.

Indian Masks Hinged

Santa Fe, N.M. — Some American Indian masks permit eyes and mouths to be opened and closed. Some sections of Indian masks are hinged so the wearer can quickly change appearance and therefore meaning.

Call the Better Business Bureau to avoid disappointment in the market place. Ask for a free BBB report before buying from unknown firms. Report unethical business conduct and misleading advertising also. Currently, the BBB suggests a thorough investigation before you respond to any land promotion in another state. Adv.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Wednesday

Cancer persons can be especially successful when it comes to working with people. The Cancer native can relate to public needs. Perhaps that is why many born under this sign are leaders in industry and commerce. Cancer is aware of security and constantly builds toward ultimate goal. Cancer harmonizes with Taurus, Virgo, Pisces and Scorpio. Cancer is often drawn to Capricorn but should exercise caution in dealings with Libra and Aries. Cancer, the natural fourth zodiacal sign, is related to the moon and to the number 2.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hold off on long-range commitments. What you need actually is close at hand. Check with Leo. Create your own design for living. One who claims to be all wise is kidding. Ask for more from mere promises.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid extravagance. Weigh actions. Give logic equal time with impulse. You are drawn to one who is sensual but impractical. Know it and take steps to prevent waste of time and emotions. Aquarius could be in picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One who challenges, but has basing opposition on illusion. Insist on factual information, especially in local area. Make new contacts. Build organization. Deal with Sagittarian. Promotion may be in off-ice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Check travel plans. Communications could be garbled. Go directly to source. Secondhand reports now are not likely to suffice. Know it and act accordingly. Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Change of scenery proves beneficial. Key now is to be analytical. Your natural ability of character analysis comes to fore. You are able to perceive moods, trends and cycles. Gemini and Virgo are in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Gather additional information. Obtain hint from Leo message. One who wants to commit you to long-range program may be sincere but not fully informed. Know it and respond accordingly. Time is on your side.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What had appeared solid is now likely to be flimsy. Agent is on separating desire from actual need. Relative may be testing your patience. Maintain balance and humor. Don't take others or yourself too seriously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You instinctively know what move to make with regard to special investment. Refuse to be swayed by fast talker. Member of opposite sex is involved. Someone seems quite willing to take risks with your money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You gain more respect. You are able to reach people, to draw to you persons with valuable contacts. Key is to outline long-range goals. Let others know what you think, wish and intend. Come out of your shell.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You receive encouragement from unusual source. Leo is in picture. Accent on putting ideas into motion. Short journey may not provide all answers for you. You will gain knowledge. Break through new horizons.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid wishful thinking. Fulfill obligations. Promise you made in past plays role in current activity. Family, home areas are involved. We aware of security requirements. Budget should be reviewed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Versatile, willing to change your mind. What appears to be a set goal may be the opposite. Move with the times. Cycle is high and your judgment will be on target. Be confident. You will go in right direction.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you ascribe to the arts and can express yourself in meaningful manner. You are intense, creative and creative. You are about to begin new adventure. In December, you will travel and socialize.

Mint In Wales Finest

London — A 1,200-year tradition will be broken in 1974 when the Royal Mint completes its move from London to Wales.

The new mint at Llantrisant is said to be technically the most advanced in the world; it produced without a hitch the 4.5 billion coins needed for the change to decimal currency in 1971.

POSTCARD

There's a long air strip now between Lake Tahoe and little Truckee, and I flew out on a DC-3. The DC-3 only gets up to 11,000. Man, the mountains looked close.

The Sierra Nevada is under first snow. At Squaw Valley they're greasing the lifts. (Some talk that Squaw might get the Winter Olympics again.)

From the high-flying jets, the lake is a patch of sapphire blue. From the DC-3 it's enormous. A mile high. The most beautiful mountain lake in America.

The plane rose slowly, slowly. (Get it up there, Captain! This snow is full of rocks.)

The dear old DC-3. I covered air crashes — we wrote about them as "giant airliners". I rode them with wet palms. I sat in them in bucket seats over New Guinea jungles. I've been in one with an engine on fire.

One of them got shot at. The co-pilot was up making a sandwich. The plane was on automatic. The captain was asleep. The co-pilot said: "Don't worry, they don't have anything that shoots higher than 5,000. We're at 7,000."

The company plane had picture windows. Couches. A bar. The man next to me said: "This was Churchill's plane. The one he flew to Yalta in."

It belongs to a Hyatt House subsidiary who run the new Brockway Springs condominium. Each unit (about $4,000 per person) is sold to 11 people. They share it by time. Each family gets it for two weeks in the summer, two weeks in the winter.

The man said: "That means to sell a house, we have to sell it eleven times. One month out for maintenance. We had to have a plane. I'm back and forth from the lake to San Francisco like a yo-yo."

The DC-3 flies slowly. We came over Squaw Valley low enough to count the teeth on a zipper. I came up here for the VIIIth Winter Olympics. After a few days freezing, we formed the International Winter Olympics Press Club. Red Smith, the sports writer, became president.

Local Officials To Be Elected By Brazilians

Rio de Janeiro (AP) — Brazilians will elect local officials Wednesday, capping a campaign scarred by political killings and ballot-box fraud.

The party of President Emilio G. Medici's military government, the National Renovating Alliance, is expected to receive most of the city council and mayoral seats in nearly 4,000 municipalities, or counties. The rest will go to the only officially allowed opposition party, the Brazilian Democratic Movement.

Dozens of bloody clashes have erupted in the past month. At least eight persons were killed in shoot-outs in interior towns.

In the state of Goias, an opposition candidate shot a policeman in a barroom argument. The dusty interior town of Mutum, Minas Gerais, was the scene of two reprisal killings among candidates. Family feuds in the northeastern state of Pernambuco resulted in four deaths during a political rally.

The government received requests from five states in the north for troops to keep order on election day. Voting will not be held in the 22 state capitals or in other sensitive areas "for security reasons."

Bank Robbers' Auto Rammed

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Two armed bank robbers, who held five hostages for more than four hours and sought unsuccessfully to get an escape airplane Tuesday night, were captured in a wooded area after their car was rammed by pursuing authorities.

The two gunmen bolted from their getaway station wagon after it was rammed off the road by an unmarked police car on Interstate 85 near the Alamance-Orange County line, but officials grabbed them.

Police said four persons were injured during the lengthy incident, but none of the injuries was believed serious. One of the injured was identified as an FBI agent. It was not known if any hostages were hurt.

The robbers and their hostages had led law enforcement officers on a twisting chase through middle North Carolina after they were surrounded inside a Greensboro bank during a robbery attempt.

Police said at one point the robbers took the station wagon and the bank employee hostages to Greensboro's Friendship Airport and demanded an airplane and pilot.

Demand Not Met
Police said they were unable to make arrangements to meet the demand.

After parking in the middle of a runway at Greensboro for a short time, the robbers and their hostages raced to Winston-Salem. After getting there, the station wagon headed back to Greensboro.

U.N. Decision Is Rejected By Portugal

Lisbon (AP) — Premier Marcello Caetano rejected Tuesday night any U.N. decision on Portuguese Africa. He told his countrymen to expect a combination of new "terrorist activities" in Africa and widespread diplomatic moves against Portugal.

The U.N. General Assembly voted 98 to 6 earlier Tuesday to condemn Portugal for waging "colonial wars" against liberation movements in Portuguese Guinea, Mozambique and Angola. The resolution asked U.N. members to give "all moral and material" assistance to the independence movements.

In a broadcast speech, Caetano said Portugal would not negotiate with rebel guerrillas or hand its overseas provinces to them.

Caetano predicted that U.N. action "will be accompanied by a general mobilization of those who agitate against us in the world."

He added: "We will have to be prepared for a renewal of terrorist activities in Africa, new attacks in the press which supports them, and even a fifth column right here in metropolitan Portugal which seeks to undermine the nation's morale."

The premier said Portugal would stand firm in its policy of retaining the African territories as "autonomous states."

Authorities were close behind in pursuit.

The hostages had been forced into the station wagon at the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. branch office at Greensboro after fruitless negotiations with Greensboro Police Capt. W. H. Jackson. He talked to them from a service station across the street from the bank.

Police learned of the robbery when the branch's burglar alarm system went off around 5:10 p.m., but when the first policeman arrived, branch manager Preston E. Davenport appealed to them to leave so that the hostages would not be harmed.

Fearful For Safety
Jackson, in his telephone conversations with the robbers, treated them gingerly, fearing for the safety of the hostages.

As the robbers and hostages came out of the rear door of the bank, one of them held what appeared to be a pistol to the throat of one woman.

Davenport emerged from the bank's rear door and walked along the bank parking lot to the station wagon. Policemen crouching behind hedges called to him, asking how many robbers there were.

Davenport replied that there were two.

Davenport pulled the car alongside the bank and went inside, where the robbers remained. They could be seen with the hostages at the rear door.

Finally Davenport came back out and cried to police, "Please get back."

Lufkin, Tex. (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Martin Dies Sr., first chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, died Tuesday night of an apparent heart attack. He was 72.

Dies served in Congress for more than 20 years. His committee investigated the activities of the Communist Party in the 1940s.

Pay Board Orders Four Papers To Cut Wage Increases By 3%

Washington (AP) — The Pay Board Tuesday ordered four New York newspapers to cut by 3% the wage increases awarded 12,212 craft-union and Newspaper Guild employees.

Board Chairman George H. Boldt announced the order affecting the New York Times, the New York Daily News, the New York Post and the Long Island Daily Press.

As a result of the board's decision rolling back 11% wage hikes to 8%, the Price Commission at the same time ordered the Times and the Daily News to reduce advertising rates.

The Times was ordered to reduce its ad rates by 1.68% and the Daily News by 1.14%.

"When companies receive approvals for a price increase based on increased costs, they are required to make price reductions when the costs are reduced," said C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission.

The newspaper employees' increases fall in the third year of a three-year contract which took effect March 31, 1970.

A board statement said an 8% increase was justified by "ongoing collective bargaining relationships and the need to prevent gross inequities."

The statement added that "qualified fringe benefits were approved as negotiated."

The increases affected were granted March 31, 1972, for all newspaper employees, except for the Newspaper Guild members at the Daily Press, who will receive increases Jan. 27, 1973.

The Price Commission said that the Times and Daily News must submit their revised advertising rate schedules to the agency and to its customers within five days and institute the new prices within 15 days.

Koppers Earnings Up

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Koppers Co. reported increases in sales and net earnings for the third quarter. Third quarter earnings were more than $8.1 million, or $1.44 per share on sales of $165 million, the company said, compares with earnings of $6.6 million or $1.17 per share on sales of $144 million during the third quarter of 1971.

Bishops Call For Slowing Farm Corporation Growth

Washington (UPI) — After finding themselves unable to reach agreement on the war in Vietnam, American Roman Catholic bishops Tuesday called for legislation to slow the growth of giant farm corporations.

The call was contained in a special message marking the 50th anniversary of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference and was overwhelmingly approved by the bishops on a 206-9 vote.

Noting that the current trend in land ownership "is a serious social issue," the bishops said "prompt legislative action is required to assist family farmers and inhibit the further expansion of giant farm corporations."

The bishops also said that the laissez-faire approach to farming, which in their view "allows harsh forces of uncontrolled competition to drive less prosperous farmers out of agriculture," must be repudiated.

They called on the nation's farm organizations "to set aside their differences and join in an effective united effort based on the positive contribution that each can make to rural America."

The bishops found, however, that they could not speak as one on the subject of Vietnam and sent a draft resolution on the subject back to the committee which prepared it, asking that it be rewritten.

The draft resolution, presented to the bishops at their semiannual meeting carefully skirted judgments of the war policies of either the United States or North Vietnam but basically reaffirmed the bishops' earlier call for amnesty for sincere conscientious objectors among draft evaders, and called for generous U.S. participation in rebuilding postwar Southeast Asia.

In extended debate Tuesday, it became apparent that some bishops wanted the resolution to express disapproval of U.S. bombing policies, while others wanted it to condemn North Vietnam's maintenance of troops in South Vietnam.

As a result, the bishops sent the draft resolution back to its originating committee, headed by John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, the national conference chairman. The committee was asked to return a new statement before the end of the week.

About 250 bishops are attending the meeting of the conference and its administrative arm, the United States Catholic Conference.

Venereal Disease Continues To Rise

"Venereal disease has been a problem of epidemic proportions again this year," said the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board in its annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30.

In the report released Tuesday night, it was stated there was a continued increase in the number of cases of venereal disease and that the incident was greatest among the age group from 15 to 19 years.

There were 772 cases of gonorrhea and 22 cases of syphilis, the report said.

The report said drug abuse, from observations at the Health Department, "appears" to be declining among young people, but the hard drug user is "still with us."

"The general population of young people seems to be somewhat more cautious when experimenting. This is especially true concerning the addictive drugs as well as drugs that may result in so-called 'bad trips,'" it said.

A disease, at one time a serious scourge, is still with us.

The report said there were 58 diagnosed cases of tuberculosis on registry as of June 30, five of those active and four of the five in a TB hospital.

The number of "body fluid alcohol determinations" have decreased, the report said, to only 300 during the fiscal year.

The reason for this, the report said, is that the Lincoln Police Department has been doing their own testing since January 1 and the laboratory does the testing only for the Nebraska State Patrol. Tests for the patrol average about three a month.

The number of chemical tests for air pollutants increased by about 75% over the previous year, the report said.

Immunizations completed during the fiscal year were as follows:

Polio	1,788
DT	1,013
DT	307
Smallpox	14
Flu	100
Tetanus	213
Measles	1,159

Commissioners Okay Program Sponsorship

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday approved sponsoring an application to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) for funds to continue operations of the executive director's office of the Nebraska County Attorneys Association.

Chief Deputy County Attorney Ronald Larners, who is president of the Nebraska County Attorneys, told the board that no county funds would be involved but that a sponsoring agent is needed in order to apply to the State Crime Commission for the funds.

He said that the local share is made up by "in-kind" services.

In other business, the commissioners took no action on the proposal by Lancaster County Welfare Director J. Harle Trabert for a child care center and skill training center for women at the former nurses' home located near Lancaster Manor on the former site of the St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Northern Systems has proposed to design, develop, implement and operate a family life center for the Welfare Department.

Trabert said it is hoped that such a program would make these girls employable and train them in family and home management.

Man Killed In Collision Of Car-Train

Lexington (UPI) — A rural Summer farmer was killed Tuesday afternoon when the car he was driving was struck by a Union Pacific freight train engine at a Dawson County road crossing a mile east of Lexington.

The Dawson County Sheriff's Office identified the victim as Stanley C. Leibhart, 56, who deputies theorized was en route alone to a farm implement business near Lexington when the mishap occurred.

Deputies said witnesses reported the southbound Leibhart car had turned left off U.S. 30 and failed to stop at a stop sign in front of the crossing and was struck by the westbound train.

The train engineer, Donald Speck of North Platte, told officers the train was traveling between 45-50 miles per hour when it hit the car.

Leibhart remained in the vehicle as it was carried a half a mile down the tracks by the train before it could stop.

Naming Wins Senator A Head Start In Seniority

Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — J. Bennett Johnston, elected Louisiana's junior senator on Nov. 7, was appointed Tuesday to the U.S. Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Allen J. Ellender.

Gov. Edwin Edwards announced at the same time, that his wife, Elaine, as stepping down as Louisiana's interim senator.

The early appointment of Johnston, a 40-year-old Shreveport attorney, will give him a head start in seniority over nine other freshman senators elected last week, Edwards said.

The seniority for the others will not begin until they are sworn in for the next term of Congress. But Johnston begins his Senate service early because Edwards appointed him to fill Ellender's unexpired term.

Gov. George C. Wallace

Wallace Says Party Needs Total Revamp

Kansas City (AP) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama said Tuesday the Democratic party must be "reconstructed from top to bottom," and indicated he expects to take an active although still unspecified role in that restructuring.

The average American, Wallace said, feels "the Democratic Party, like the government, has gotten remote from him."

It was for that reason, Wallace said, the Democrats fared as poorly as they did in the presidential election last week.

Wallace made his comments as a surprise visitor to The Associated Press Managing Editors convention here at the conclusion of a panel discussion in which his wife, Cornelia, also participated.

Wallace flew here Tuesday and was to return immediately after addressing the convention, in what his wife acknowledged was his longest journey since he was shot six months ago while campaigning in a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

Speaking from his wheel chair to a gathering of close to 600 journalists and their wives, Wallace said it has been "the press of state business" more than recuperation from his injury that has kept him from traveling more extensively in recent months.

In selecting a presidential nominee, the Democrats paid undue attention to "the exotic and those who made the most noise," Wallace said.

"It turned out Nov. 7 that those who made the most noise didn't have the most votes."

In answer to a question, Wallace said he had "no specific plans for 1976."

Lincoln Orchestra Much Improved

By RICHARD GRACE

A wintry chilled audience braved the unseasonal elements Tuesday evening to test the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra's first appearance and the performance passed the careful scrutiny with flying colors.

Appearing with guest pianist Alicia de Larrocha, the orchestra presented a rather light musical fare excluding the masterful fourth piano concerto of Beethoven. Other works on the program included Dvorak's overture, "Carnaval," "Nights in the Gardens of Spain" for piano and orchestra by DeFalla and "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" by Dukas.

By comparison it would be safe to note the large improvement of the orchestra from late season to Tuesday night's performance. The different colors of the instruments are more easy to discern, the balance between the sections are restored and the players themselves can perform with more assurance because they can hear the other members so much better. The acoustics are more brilliant throughout the hall providing all the paying customers with excellent resonance, reflection and echo return from the stage.

Alicia de Larrocha is a superb and sensitive artist. She performed the Beethoven Concerto with exquisite taste, executed the virtuosic passages with ease and interpreted the slow middle movement with an inspired simplicity.

Miss de Larrocha also played in the work of de Falla. Although this work is not truly a concerto it does possess a leading piano part of major dimensions and virtuoso difficulty. Particularly interesting was the coloratura passages for the piano in the third mo-ture which are characteristic of the popular Andalusian melodies of Spain.

There have been quite a few additions to the orchestra personnel and judging by the quality of the performance it has certainly improved the quality of playing. Now perhaps the quality of the works performed should be questioned so that an improvement in that area can be noted also.

Arbitrator Bars Federal Rehiring Qualification

(c) Washington Star-News
 Washington — A federal arbitration decision holds that government employees demoted during reductions-in-force are entitled to first crack at promotions to other kinds of jobs, even though they may not be best-qualified for the position.

Such employees are entitled to priority over better-qualified candidates as long as their performance in the position from which they were demoted "was fully satisfactory" and they have the necessary skill for the new position, it was ruled by Arbitrator A. Langley Coffey.

Also Depends On Whom

Oklahoma football coach Chuck Fairbanks was talking Saturday night about how mistakes — fumbles and penalties — had kept his Sooners off the scoreboard a few times in his team's 17-6 win over Missouri.

When a writer pointed out that the Sooners were fumble prone a year ago and yet still managed to score in the neighborhood of 40 or more points a game, the OU coach became a bit peeved.

"Well, I guess maybe we're just not as good as we were last year," he replied sharply, then more calmly added, "It depends on where and when the mistakes happen."

He might also have added that it depends on whom you make those mistakes against.

The Sooners lost at least two touchdowns, one on a fumble at the Missouri three-yard line and one on a clipping penalty on a lengthy run into the Missouri end zone by Greg Pruitt.

The Sooners lost three fumbles and had one pass intercepted, yet were enough superior to Missouri that they were able to win.

Ohio State had two passes intercepted and lost three fumbles and lost 19-12 to a Michigan State team that isn't rated in the top 20.

UCLA lost two fumbles and three passes intercepted and was upset by Washington, a team rated only 17th by The Associated Press and 16th by United Press International.

All of which gets us to a point we'd like to make about the 23-23 Nebraska-Iowa State tie.

Proved Their Greatness

The Huskers lost six fumbles and had two passes intercepted, yet managed to come out with a 23-23 tie against a team that this week is ranked 12th.

The point is that if you can make that many turnovers against a team as good as Iowa State and still come out with a tie, you've got to be a great football team.

That fact proves how great this Nebraska team is even more perhaps than a 62-0 win over Missouri. You'll notice in the UPI ratings appearing elsewhere in this morning's paper that the Huskers received one first place vote.

If you'd like to try to guess where that one vote came from, we'll remind you that one of the members of the UPI board is Bob Devaney.

And if this writer were a member of The Associated Press panel this year, the Huskers would have had one first place vote in that poll, also.

I've seen Oklahoma play twice this year and despite what the ratings will say next week with the Sooners likely to remain ahead of the Huskers going into that Thanksgiving Day showdown, you can look for the odds-makers to make the Huskers the favorite, perhaps by more points than you would imagine.

National Title Still Possible

And those, who have counted the Huskers out of the national championship picture because of the tie, may be a bit hasty.

Nothing has really changed in that regard for the Huskers. The same things have to happen now that had to happen before the Iowa State game.

The factors necessary for the Huskers to win a third national championship before the Iowa State game were these:

- Southern-Cal had to get beat. They still do.
- Alabama had to get beat. They still do.
- The two Big Ten teams had to be beaten. One of them, Ohio State, has been.
- Nebraska had to beat Oklahoma. They still do.

If all of those things happen now, the Huskers will be national champions despite the 23-23 tie. If even one of those things had failed to happen, the Huskers could not have won the national title even had they beaten Iowa State.

As recently as seven years ago, a team with one loss and one tie was named national champion. That was Alabama in 1965.

Central's Dineen Resigns Position

Omaha (AP) —Football coach Tom Dineen has resigned at Omaha Central High School, but said he plans to remain on the faculty.

The 49-year-old Dineen is the fourth head coach of a Metropolitan Conference football team to leave the sport in the last year.

Dineen has been at Central for eight years, the last four as head football coach. He had gone to Central from Ryan High where he pioneered the school's athletic program.

he was a junior. One could not ask more out of an offensive lineman than he gives. Defensively at middle guard, he was our second leading tackler, recovered three fumbles and blocked a kick.

"Every coach should have a player like Bob to work with," says Sunderland. "Cliff Ogg (Wheatland junior who rushed for more than 1,200 yards), should buy Bob a steak after every game."

Such glowing praise was typical for other eight-man all-state linemen, which also include Hampton's Ross Peters and Republican City's Jerry Ott at ends and Farnam's Randy Edson and Odell's Steve Hays at guards.

The backfield is composed of Humphrey's Bob Sjuets at quarterback and running backs Eldon Ideus of Adams and Dave Romans of Ft. Calhoun, both of whom played on unbeaten teams.

Peters, a "fine competitor and very coachable young man," according to Hampton coach Jim Connick, led the school to an unbeaten season

Rodgers Scores Again In Big 8 Voting

... NEBRASKA STAR NAMED TOP OFFENSIVE PLAYER FOR THIRD TIME

Kansas City (AP) — Johnny Rodgers has scored again.

For the third time this football season, the elusive Nebraska flash was selected Tuesday as the Big Eight Conference offensive player of the week.

Rodgers, a leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy, was named this time for his pass receiving, touchdown making and kick returns in the Cornhuskers' 23-23 stalemate with Iowa State.

The dazzling wing back caught nine passes for 132 yards, scored touchdowns on receptions of four and 35-yard passes from Dave Humm, returned two punts for 12 yards and a kickoff for 28 yards.

Husker Coach Bob Devaney said Rodgers' play "was tremendous."

Coach Johnny Majors of Iowa State said the Cyclones used three kickers and three types of kicking schemes to try to keep Rodgers from running them back.

Said Majors: "We kicked high, we kicked out of bounds, and we even were prepared to kick a field goal attempt out of bounds. We once kicked on third and 25 because we knew Rodgers was out of the game."

"He's a game breaker. I've never seen a more exciting player. He's a thrill a minute but he's instant cardiac arrest for coaches."

Devaney said Rodgers "should certainly win the Heisman Trophy."

Rodgers won the Big Eight honor in a split vote over Oklahoma halfback Greg Pruitt, another Heisman candidate.

Pruitt had 195 yards rushing and scored a touchdown in the Sooners' 17-6 victory over Missouri.

Other nominees were tight end J. V. Cain of Colorado, fullback George Palmer of Oklahoma State, wide receiver Emmett Edwards of Kansas and the entire Iowa State offensive line.

UPI PUTS HUSKERS 5TH

...Nebraska Gets One First Place Vote

New York (UPI) — As top-rated Southern California rested up for its Pacific Eight showdown this weekend with UCLA, a major shakeup took place among the rest of the nation's top 10 football teams.

In the latest ratings of the United Press International board of coaches, Alabama, off its 35-21 win over previously unbeaten LSU, climbed back into the No. 2 spot while Nebraska tumbled to fifth after being stunned by a 23-23 tie with Iowa State.

Southern California, meanwhile, retained the No. 1 spot and, despite being idle, increased its first place votes from 27 to 31 for 346 points. Alabama got three first place votes and 309 points.

Also moving up were unbeaten Michigan (fifth to third after blanking Iowa 31-0), Oklahoma (seventh to fourth after topping Missouri 17-6) and Texas (ninth to sixth after wrapping up a fifth straight Southwest Conference title by whipping Baylor 17-3).

LSU and Penn State were seventh and eighth while Ohio State dropped from fourth to ninth in the wake of its 19-12 upset loss to Michigan State. Auburn, also idle last week, completed the top 10.

Only 19 teams received votes from the coaches this week as balloting was highly concentrated among the first six teams. Heading the last nine teams was Notre Dame, still unable to overwhelm anyone in the fashion of a top 10 team since early in the season.

Iowa State, which missed beating Nebraska outright on a blown extra point attempt, was 12th followed by Tennessee, UCLA, Colorado, Washington, North Carolina and Arizona State and Utah State tied for 19th.

Devaney Issues Public Apology

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

A jovial Bob Devaney Tuesday issued a public apology to the farmers he apparently offended with his remark that his Huskers had played like farmers on a picnic after their tie with Iowa State Saturday.

"My idea of a good picnic is relaxing, having a good time and having someone serving you the food," the Husker coach said, smiling. "And the reason I used farmers as an example is that I figured they knew how to have a good picnic."

The Husker coach also smiled when the subject of the Huskers receiving one first place vote in the UPI poll this week came up.

"I suppose you figured Bear Bryant gave us that one," he said with a smile.

In a more serious vein, the NU boss pointed out that despite the tie with Iowa State, his Huskers still have the chance to achieve all the goals they had previously set.

"The tie to me was a greater disappointment than the UCLA loss," he said. "Because we had fought back so far. But we can still have a great season."

"The chance is still there..." he added leaving the listeners to fill in the missing words. "There had to be a lot of things happen before and there still are a lot of things have to happen."

Devaney obviously was talking of the national championship.

"But our No. 1 object right now is to beat Kansas State and to do a damn good job of it."

But he wasn't figuring on that being an easy job.

"Kansas State has a lot of seniors playing their last game and they and coach Gibson will be anxious to end the season on a good note," he observed.

After the success that Iowa State enjoyed passing against the Huskers, Devaney said his squad could expect to see plenty of the same kind of attack this week.

Devaney indicated two defensive backs, Bob Thornton and Zaven Yarinai could expect to see more action this week than they have been seeing.

Paraseghian Makes Orange Bowl Bid

Miami (UPI) — If coach Ara Parseghian and the Fighting Irish players have their choice, Notre Dame will be playing in the Orange Bowl game in Miami New Year's Day.

Parseghian made his wishes known Tuesday in hopes that Orange Bowl scouts would accompany the University of Miami Hurricanes to Notre Dame Saturday for their clash with the Fighting Irish.

"No doubt about it," athletic director Ed Krause said. "The Orange Bowl would be the No. 1 choice of our players and coaches if they get to vote on a bowl."

"I would like to come to Miami," the Irish coach said. "Our only bowl experience has been two trips to the Cotton Bowl."

The 11th-ranked Fighting Irish are heavy favorites to whip the Hurricanes Saturday and Miami coach Fran Curci, when told of Notre Dame's interest in the Orange Bowl, lamented that "Everywhere we go this year, the home team is steamed up with a ton of extra incentive."

"I believe Notre Dame has a team that is qualified for any bowl game except the Rose Bowl, which has the pact with the Big 10," Parseghian said.

"We're a more exciting football team than in recent years. Our offense is averaging 454 yards under the direction of quarterback Tommy Clement, a fine sophomore runner and passer."

"And we're getting on the scoreboard with an average of about 30 points a game," Parseghian said. "That's a big turnaround from last year."

Notre Dame is 7-1 and Parseghian noted that "Nobody even predicted we'd be in the top 20 when the season began."

—ONLY 14 COACHES WITH NO LOSING SEASONS—

Devaney Among Select Group

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

New York (AP) — Bob Devaney, in his final season as Nebraska's head coach, has never won Coach of the Year honors but he's assured of a special niche in football history.

He's on a select list of 14 major college coaches who have never experienced a losing season. Devaney's closest call was a 4-3-3 mark in his first season (1957) at Wyoming.

How select is that list? Well, only four coaches in history with at least 10 years at a major college finished with no losing or .500 seasons and only Jock Sutherland coached longer than Devaney.

Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon (11 for 11) and Michigan's Bo Schembechler (10 for 10) can still make the list.

Five other coaches never had a season under .500 and Texas' Darrell Royal and Arizona State's Frank Kush can join that group.

Here's the entire list: Sutherland, Devaney, Knute Rockne, Sleepy Jim Crowley, George Woodruff, McClendon, Schembechler, Royal, Kush, Frank Thomas, Percy Haughton, Frank Leahy, Bob Neyland and Andy Smith.

Ben Schwartzwalder has had 22 consecutive non-losing seasons since 1949, his first year at Syracuse, but that mark will be in jeopardy Saturday when the 5-5 Orangemen travel to West Virginia — which just happens to be Schwartzwalder's alma mater.

Most Top Eight-Man Football Players Are In The Backfield

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

There's a general concession among eight-man football coaches. They admit their better athletes are usually in the backfield.

This year's balloting for an all-state eight-man team reflected that fact. Most votes were distributed among a cluster of individual backs with outstanding offensive credentials.

But, perhaps in deviation of past eight-man voting, this year's top linemen stayed right in step with the top backs, almost matching them vote-by-vote.

Wheatland's Bob Johnson, the all-state center, was one drawing very favorable response.

"Bob is the best offensive lineman I have coached," says highly successful Wheatland coach Jack Sunderland. "His blocking is just tremendous. I have seen him block many people and snap their heads back from the blow."

"He's a senior," adds Sunderland, "but I sure wish in the tough 10-team Crossroads Conference.

He caught 28 passes for 527 yards (18.8 average per catch), snagged 10 touchdown passes and caught four two-point conversion passes.

"Ross's statistics could have been greater if we were strictly a passing team," points out Connick. "But we threw the ball only 138 times in nine games. We rushed for 2,317 yards and many of them were gained over Ross. He is the best blocking end I have coached."

Peters also played defensive end, taking part in 32 tackles, recovering two fumbles, knocking down three passes and registering a safety.

"He wasn't fooled on an end around or reverse all year long," says Connick. "Our opponents gained only 655 yards rushing and 337 were against our second and third teams in the last two quarters."

Ott also helped lead his team to an unbeaten season as Republican City went 9-0 and finished sixth in the final ratings.

"He did everything we asked him to do and more," says Rep City coach Russell.

Eight-Man All-State Team

Honor Roll

Mark Olsen, Hampton; Cliff Ogg, Wheatland; Jim Doyle, Stapleton; Rick Buresh, Gresham; Cliff Church, Brady; Dwain Seier, Petersburg; Bill Davis, Trenton; Wes Hoppe, Farnam; Pat Workman, Table Rock; Randy Goltz, Brady; Terry Atkinson, Bartlett; Ken Stohs, Odell.

Steve Neal, Tryon; Don Anderson, Mead; Gary Buttermore, Republican City; Randy Laflin, Brule; Wendell Hoppe, Farnam; Wilber Kirchner, Guide Rock; Loren Filipi, Milligan; Bob White, Doniphan; Mike Gengenbach, Eustis; Rick L'Heureux, Bladen; Mark Brown, Trenton; Mike Langan, Cedar Rapids.

Bernie Perlinger, Paxton; Steve Skoda, East Butler; Ron Smith, Malcolm; Ken Janovec, Cedar Bluffs; Dave Caron, Ft. Calhoun; Bob Pfister, Lewiston; Russ Loewenstein, Stamford; Randy McNitt, Maxwell; Jim Shores, Hayes Center; Roger Stone, Nehawka; Doug Nieveen, Adams; Bill Riese, Bladen.

The 180-pound senior caught 16 passes for 268 yards and six touchdowns and rushed 24 times (on end-around plays) for 278 yards and four more touchdowns. His tremendous versatility is shown in the fact that Ott also scored three touchdowns on pass interceptions and one on a punt return to finish with 14 TDs and four two-point conversion receptions.

"As a linebacker," points out Russell, "he was in on 99 tackles, intercepted eight passes and recovered a fumble."

Edson, at guard, was one of the major reasons why Farnam won the state eight-man championship this fall, according to his coach, Bob Fuller.

"He's the best lineman in the Great Plains Conference," says Fuller, "and I think he would have to be among the very best in the state, too."

The 6-3, 225-pound senior was a "crisp, punishing blocker," according to Fuller, who points out Edson was equally valuable at defensive end where he was in on 118 tackles, intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble.

At Odell, Hays played on a twice-beaten team, but the 215-pound senior was a leading vote-getter because of his blocking strength.

"He's our second all-state guard in four years," notes Odell coach Vern Aylor, who also coached 305-pound Roger Stein in 1969.

"Steve is a lot quicker, more versatile and can penetrate better than Roger," notes Aylor. "He also played defensive guard, was in on about 120 tackles, intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble."

Humphrey's Sjuets edged Farnam's Wes Hoppe and Hampton's Mark Olsen, both underclassmen, for the quarterback spot.

He rushed 126 times for 849 yards and completed 60 of 113 passes for 851 yards. He also ran for 19 touchdowns and passed for 16 while averaging 218 yards offense per game.

"He's also our kick return man with 577 return yards and an honor roll student," his coach, Leroy Ditter, stresses. "His stats would have been better (Humphrey was 8-11, but we laid off of a lot of opponents."

Romans was the major thrust behind Ft. Calhoun's unbeaten season and No. 1 ranking. He rushed 118 times for 928 yards (a whopping 7.9 per carry average) and scored 96 points.

"He's been our leader both offensively and defensively the last two years," says his coach, Jim Dodge. "And he's one of our leading receivers."

At middle guard and linebacker, Romans made 67 tackles, assisted on 27 others and intercepted seven passes. Most of his unassisted tackles were behind the line of scrimmage, points out Dodge.

Ideus made his presence known in a lot of ways for unbeaten, second-ranked Adams. He rushed for almost 1,000 yards and scored 30 touchdowns.

"He also blocked six punts (two for touchdowns)," notes Adams coach Ken Cook. "He just does everything. Anybody that's seen him play football or basketball knows how much he puts into it."

National Award To ISU's Krakau

... GUTHRIE CENTER NATIVE NAMED TOP LINEMAN OF WEEK

Merv Krakau has come a long way ... a lot longer than the 30 or so miles from his home in tiny Guthrie Center, Iowa, to Iowa State University in Ames.

"He played very little as a sophomore," recalls Coach Johnny Majors, "and we debated a long time about redshirting him. But he was 6-foot-3 and 235 pounds and ran a 4.8 40 and we didn't have a lot of people around here like that in those days, so we played him some at midseason. I'm sorry now we didn't redshirt him."

If they had, the Cyclones would have Krakau—it's pronounced Croaker, by the way—for another season. And another season might really have been something, if Krakau's performance in Saturday's 23-all standoff against defending national champion Nebraska is any indication.

All Krakau did was make 11 tackles—six of them unassisted—break up three passes, cause two fumbles, recover two others and make five tackles behind the line of scrimmage, including three sacks of Nebraska's quarterback for 25 yards worth of losses.

For that show—"the finest play by a defensive end I have ever seen ... playing or coaching," Majors called it—the Iowa State senior was named National College Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

He also was named the Cyclones' Headhunter of the Week with a record 8-3 points — 18 above the old mark—based on Majors' point system for blocked passes, fumble recoveries, tackles for losses, etc.

Krakau is the classic example of the soft-spoken athlete who becomes a tiger—a Cyclone, if you will—on the field.

"Off the field, he's the most mild-mannered young man," says Majors. "He's quiet and smiles a lot and you wouldn't think he'd step on a flea. He's a very consistent player, but he played his best games last year and this against our two toughest opponents—Nebraska and Oklahoma."

In fact, Krakau was switched to tackle against Oklahoma "because they run the ball a lot and our tackle situation was not very good that week. But no matter where he plays, I've never seen him knocked off his feet."

Ironically, Iowa State almost bypassed Krakau and didn't sign him until May of his senior year in high school, three months after the Big Eight's letter of intent date. "He kind of slipped by us," Majors recalls with a grimace. "But his coach contacted us and we took a chance on him. We signed him strictly on his size and speed."

In winning lineman of the Week honors, Krakau beat out defensive tackles Charlie Davis of Texas Christian and Carl Barisch of Princeton; offensive tackles Jerry Sisemore of Texas and Joe deLamieure of Michigan State; linebackers Ron North of Purdue, Randy Gradishar of Ohio State, John Skorupan of Penn State and Nick Arcaro of Wake Forest and wide receivers Wayne Wheeler of Alabama and Clint Graves of Temple.

'Run-For-Pay' Circuit To Include Olympians

New York (UPI) — Professional track and field took a step closer toward becoming a reality Tuesday when the International Track Association announced plans for a "run-for-pay" circuit that will include such Olympic stars as Jim Ryun, Bob Seagren, Lee Evans and Randy Matson.

At a press conference held in a downtown restaurant here, Michael O'Hara, President of the IFA announced that a series of professional meets with prize monies of $600,600 will begin in March of 1973. O'Hara said that "at least 18 meets have been scheduled for the United States with an additional 17 planned for Europe."

All told, eleven events are planned for each meet with four or five competitors in each. In addition to Ryun, Evans, Seagren and Matson, another five performers are expected to sign contracts with the IFA next week. Also present at the news conference was New York Giant defensive back Richmond Flowers, a former star hurdler with the University of Tennessee, who has also agreed to compete for the new league.

Among the cities scheduled for meets which are scheduled through June of 1973 are Los Angeles, Albuquerque, N.M., Baltimore, Chicago, Oklahoma City, San Diego, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Long Island, N.Y. The European sites include London, Paris, Grenoble, France, Copenhagen, Berlin, Munich, Stockholm, Brussels and Oslo.

'Cats-Minus Four Hold NU Drills

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Four Kansas State football players reported minor injuries from the Oklahoma State game Tuesday but the rest of the squad worked out for 90 minutes.

"We are still practicing hard," said coach Vince Gibson. "There was a lot of enthusiasm, even though it was cold and bitter."

Ailing but expected to be ready for the Nebraska clash are defensive tackles Charles Clarington and Clayton Ferguson, defensive back Paul Smith and running back Dave Specht.

... ARCHIBALD TOPS KINGS WITH 23

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — The Kansas City-Omaha Kings never really got untracked here Tuesday night at Civic Auditorium.

But neither did the Buffalo Braves as the Kings took a 106-100 win. Both teams had trouble generating any offense in a game filled with turnovers.

The victory evened the Kings' record at 8-8 overall and 2-2 here at Civic Auditorium. The loss dropped the Braves to 3-12.

The game began slowly with the Kings not scoring until there was 8:51 remaining in the first quarter when Tom Van Arsdale hit on a fielder.

The lead then changed several times before the Kings went on top for good in the third quarter. Ron Riley's bucket with 6:59 left in that period gave the Kings a 67-66 advantage.

Nate Archibald and Nate Williams then added baskets as the Kings upped their margin to 71-68.

Although Archibald collected his fifth foul with 6:12 left remaining in the third quarter, the Kings extended their lead.

Louisiana Tech Earns Bowl Bid

Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — Undefeated Louisiana Tech University was picked Tuesday to play in the annual Grantland Rice Bowl in Baton Rouge Dec. 9th.

The game decides the NCAA's Mid-Eastern College Division Football Championship.

The Braves tried pressing with Archibald out of the game, but the strategy backfired.

The Kings handled the extra pressure to pad their margin to 11 points an 85-74 lead in the early going of the last period.

Archibald is not only the primary ball handler for the Kings, but also leads the NBA in scoring and assists. He came back into the game with 6:14 left as the Kings held off an attempted Braves' rally.

Even with Archibald back in the lineup, the Braves continued to press and this time it worked as Archibald fouled out with 4:12 to go.

Buffalo then slowly closed the gap to two points three times only to have the Kings score a basket and go up by four. The Braves finally committed a turnover which cost them the halgame.

Dick Gibbs scored a basket

Jenkins Starts Dynasty With Unbeaten Team?

... FALLS CITY SH EARNS CLASS D TITLE

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Bill Jenkins is rapidly building a football reputation at Falls City Sacred Heart. In only his third year there, the University of Nebraska graduate has just completed a second straight unbeaten season and earns the Journal and Star's state Class D championship.

It was a start to finish march to the title, which came on the heels of an 8-0 finish and No. 4 ranking last year.

The Irish just never did anything not to warrant a No. 1 rating this fall. They recorded eight shutouts in 10 games, gave up only a safety in one game and eight points in the other. The touchdown came on a pass interception, giving the Sacred Heart defense the distinction of not yielding a six-pointer all season.

While defense was probably the secret behind Sacred Heart's success, offense was probably the secret for Farnam, which reigns as the Journal and Star's eight-man state champion.

Coach Bob Fuller's Green-backs flashed remarkable offensive muscle in blasting through its rugged 10-game schedule.

Farnam's last six opponents, for instance, finished with a combined 40-16 record. Despite the caliber of opposition, Farnam, behind underclassmen backs Wendell and Wes Hoppe and all-state lineman Randy Edson averaged better than 50 points per game.

Sacred Heart made sure there was no question to its state championship qualities. The Irish last week blasted previously unbeaten and fourth-ranked Elmwood, 37-0 in the Galaxy Conference playoff.

That left Sacred Heart and third-ranked Hildreth of the Fort Kearney Conference as the only unbeaten Class D teams.

Things were different, however, in eight-man. A person could get as many as five No. 1 arguments from unbeaten, untied teams. Farnam, a member of both the Hi-Line and Southwest Border Conferences, held on to turn back the ratings challenges of Adams, Hampton, Ft. Calhoun and Republican City.

Adams won the Homesteader Conference by defeating previously rated Odell for a second time and Hampton was the champion of the 10-team Crossroads Conference.

Ft. Calhoun was the pride of the East Central Nebraska Conference and Republican City zipped through unbeaten in the South Central Nebraska Conference.

Brady, which finished No. 5, lost only in the final 10 seconds to Farnam on a field goal.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class D

- 1-Falls City SH (10-0)
- 2-Nelson (8-1)
- 3-Hildreth (9-0)
- 4-Silver Creek (8-1)
- 5-Davenport (8-1-1)
- 6-Sidney St. Pat's (8-1)
- 7-Harrisburg (8-1)
- 8-Elmwood (8-1)
- 9-Clay Center (6-2-1)
- 10-Orchard (7-2)

Comment — Nelson still has Republican Valley League playoff game with 10th-rated Class C Arapahoe. But even a win wouldn't be enough to overtake Sacred Heart, which handed previously unbeaten and fourth-ranked Elmwood, 37-0, in Galaxy playoff. A loss would not likely cause a Nelson demotion either, so it maintained final runner-up status, based on strong Class C-oriented schedule. Davenport, after first loss to unbeaten Class C Meridian in Pioneer playoff, retained No. 5 spot. Sumner was bumped from select group. It relinquished No. 10 position to Orchard, which avenged one of two regular season setbacks by defeating Class B West Holt, 6-0, in Niobrara Valley playoff. Wilcox had upset Sumner, 14-13, the week before.

Eight-Man

- 1-Farnam (10-0)
- 2-Adams (10-0)
- 3-Hampton (9-0)
- 4-Ft. Calhoun (9-0)
- 5-Brady (8-1)
- 6-Republican City (9-0)
- 7-Trenton (8-1)
- 8-Wheatland (9-1)
- 9-Cedar Bluffs (9-1)
- 10-Hie, Humphrey (8-1) tie, Bartlett (9-1)

Comment — Adams defeated Odell for second time in Homesteader Conference playoff, but it wasn't enough to wrest No. 1 from high-scoring Farnam, which had a lesser post-season assignment in Big Springs. Farnam's ability to coast past final six opponents (which finished with combined 40-16 record) allowed it to stay No. 1. Farnam averaged more than 50 points in 10 games. Adams was a shade under that. Odell's loss dropped it from 10th out of the ratings. That created one vacancy as top nine teams maintained order. Humphrey would have gotten 10th spot to itself (since it defeated Bartlett, 26-24), but Bartlett was very impressive winner over Cedar Rapids in Sandhills-Gateway Conference playoff and therefore deserves to share ratings distinction.

Neinas To Let Coaches Talk About Controversial Plays

... LEAGUE'S GAG RULE STILL APPLIES

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Big Eight conference commissioner Chuck Neinas told Kansas City sports writers Monday he would write a memo to conference football coaches, allowing them to comment on controversial plays and give their versions of what the officials told them their ruling was.

Neinas and writers met Monday morning to discuss Neinas' refusal to writers to question coaches about controversial plays at the weekly Big Eight briefings' session.

Neinas' contention was that coaches, if asked on a conference call, could be provoked into criticizing officials, which is in violation of the Big Eight's gag rule.

In question was Neinas' ruling a week ago that Kansas coach Don Fambrough not be asked about a play in the Kansas-Oklahoma State game, where a fumble occurred disallowing a Kansas touchdown.

Three officials signaled touchdown before another dissuaded them. Films tended to show the officials' final decision was correct.

Fambrough later said he wanted to be asked the question because he wanted to clear up what he thought about the play. He said he had no quarrel with the decision, but that his opinion was that officials should not signal a touchdown unless there was one.

Neinas said questions at the Big Eight briefings would not take coaches off the hook concerning the gag rule, but that they could comment on what they saw.

He also said officials' explanations to the coaches could be revealed by the coaches.

Neinas also requested writers to phrase questions in order not to provoke coaches into criticizing officials.

Dow Tops 1,000

New York (AP) — Stock prices exploded upwards Tuesday to crack a historic barrier. The Dow Jones industrial average closed over 1,000 points for the first time ever.

The Dow average of 30 industrial stocks finished at 1,003.16, easily an all-time high, and up 6.09 from Monday's close of 997.07, the previous record. It was the third straight session in which Wall Street's most closely watched indicator had set a new high.

The historic closing was achieved despite heavy selling pressure, which always has occurred whenever the Dow neared the sensitive 1,000 mark. In the past such selling waves had turned the indicator back when it neared the level or crossed it in intraday trading.

"This is the greatest day in history," exulted Ralph Accompa of Harris, Upham & Co. "We're breaking out into the champagne now."

The New York Stock Exchange index, a much broader gauge than the Dow since it includes some 1,400 common stocks, also set an all-time high Tuesday, finishing at 62.94 to eclipse the previous high of 62.52 set on Nov. 3.

The market's ability to withstand heavy selling was seen by analysts as an encouraging factor which spurred investor confidence and helped the Dow go over the top. Expectations for an early resumption of Vietnam peace talks and a continuing effect from the Nixon landslide also were mentioned by Wall Street observers.

In addition, government economists had said that the gross national product had grown even more in the third quarter than had previously been guessed. Some analysts were guessing the figures would be revised upward by $3 billion to $25.8 billion.

"That's a dramatic revision," said Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co.

Trading on the Big Board was active, with 20 million shares changing hands.

Philips Industries was the Big Board's most-active issue, up 1 3/4 to 39 1/2. It led a strong oil rally, with Union Oil of California, up 1 1/2 to 35 1/2, and American Overseas Petroleum, up 1 1/2 to 32 1/2, also in the lead.

Analysts said oil stocks had been rising recently because of the national energy shortage and because they are selling at relatively low prices in relation to their earnings.

AT&T, which has been one of the strongest stocks in the recent bull market, closed at a new yearly high of 51 1/2, up 1/4.

Atlas Corp. was the third-most-active stock and the leading percentage gainer, up 3 1/2 to 24 1/2 on a Monday close of 21 1/2.

On the American Exchange, the most-active issue was McCulloch Oil, down 1/4 to 22 1/2.

After the session closed, soybeans were 1/4 to 1/2 cents higher, wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 cents lower, and corn was 1/4 to 1/2 cents higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Nixon Win Seen As Sign Of Voters' Perceptiveness

By Marryle S. Rukeyser

The whopping defeat handed to Sen. George McGovern by voters who crossed party lines indicates widespread ability of ordinary folk to see through the aspirant's loose tendency to confuse surmise with truth.

This McGovern technique didn't square with the announcement after his nomination that "This is the time for truth."

In Wall Street, distortions are stigmatized as financial blue sky. As in politics, those who mislead investors purport to be activated by the highest motives of making suckers affluent.

In trying to win friends by setting class against class, the South Dakotan vainly charged that President Nixon was motivated primarily by a desire to favor the wealthy.

An example of this approach was the senator's allegation that the administration enriched big grain operators by tipping them off in advance on the Russian wheat purchase.

Where does the truth lie? Cargill, Inc., a Minneapolis-based major grain merchandising enterprise, broke with precedent, ignored its right of privacy, and issued audited figures purportedly showing that, instead of profiting from alleged inside information, the company actually lost nearly a cent a bushel on the wheat sold to Russia. This conclusion was based on an audit by the accounting firm of Marwick, Mitchell & Company. For the first time in 107 years, Cargill, Inc. opened its books to test the veracity of the Senator, who had implied that favored wheat merchants had made huge windfall profits. Before the audit, Cargill assumed that it had made a normal profit. Evidently the other suppliers also believe they profited.

"Provided everything goes well within the complex shipping program," Walter C. Klein, president, Bunge Corporation, another wheat supplier, said, "Bunge Corporation hopes eventually to realize a profit on our sale to the Russians in line with the modest margins customarily experienced in our highly competitive trade."

After the event, little is to be gained by beating a dead horse, but more is at stake than one politician's accuracy. A more serious issue is the implication that profit, even if legitimately earned, is a dirty word. No one can consistently be for voluntary business enterprise — and at the same time be against the profit motive. For profit is the indispensable ingredient for protecting a company's franchise to survive.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a universal puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in each word. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than six, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left corner of the puzzle and add the key numbers to the numbers in the upper left corner. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
